Papandreou Dies; Former Greek Premier

ATHENS (AP) — George Papandreou, a storm center in Greek politics for more than half a century and a leading foe of the present dictatorship, died early today at the age of 80. Despite his opposition to the military regime, it will give him a state funeral Sunday.

He had undergone emergency surgery Thursday morning for a perforated ulcer and came through satisfactorily. But shortly before 2 a.m. today he developed a brain clot and died 30 minutes later.

His son Andreas, the chief target of the military coup 18 months ago, is in exile in Stockholm. He is scheduled to be tried in absentia Monday on charges of plotting an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Premier George Papadopoulos.

Andreas' American wife, the former Margaret Chant of Chicago, came to Athens Wednesday with two of her children after being assured she would not be harmed.

Papandreou's political battles began in 1916 when he joined the uprising that forced King Constantine I out and brought Greece into World War I on the side of the Allies.

In 1923, he became minister of the interior, first of many Cabinet posts he held. He formed the Democratic Socialist party in 1936 but was exiled a year later by dictator John Metaxas. After the general's death, he returned to Greece, only to be imprisoned by the invading Nazis.

Papandreou escaped in 1944 to Cairo where he set up a government in exile and returned to Greece to become the country's first postwar premier, a post he held until January 1945. From then through 1951 he held a number of Cabinet posts.

During the next dozen years he bitterly opposed a conservative government headed during most of the period by Constantine Caramanlis.

Papandreou formed the Center Union party in 1961 and in 1963 his party scored an upset victory over the Caramanlis forces by accusing the government of election frauds.

He led his party to victory again in 1964 but a year later, following a clash with young King Constantine over control of the army, he was forced out of office.

Papandreou kept the political situation in turmoil and in the spring of 1967 it looked as if he had a good chance to return to power in elections scheduled for May. A junta of colonels overthrew the caretaker government in April to prevent this and arrested both George Papandreou and Andreas.

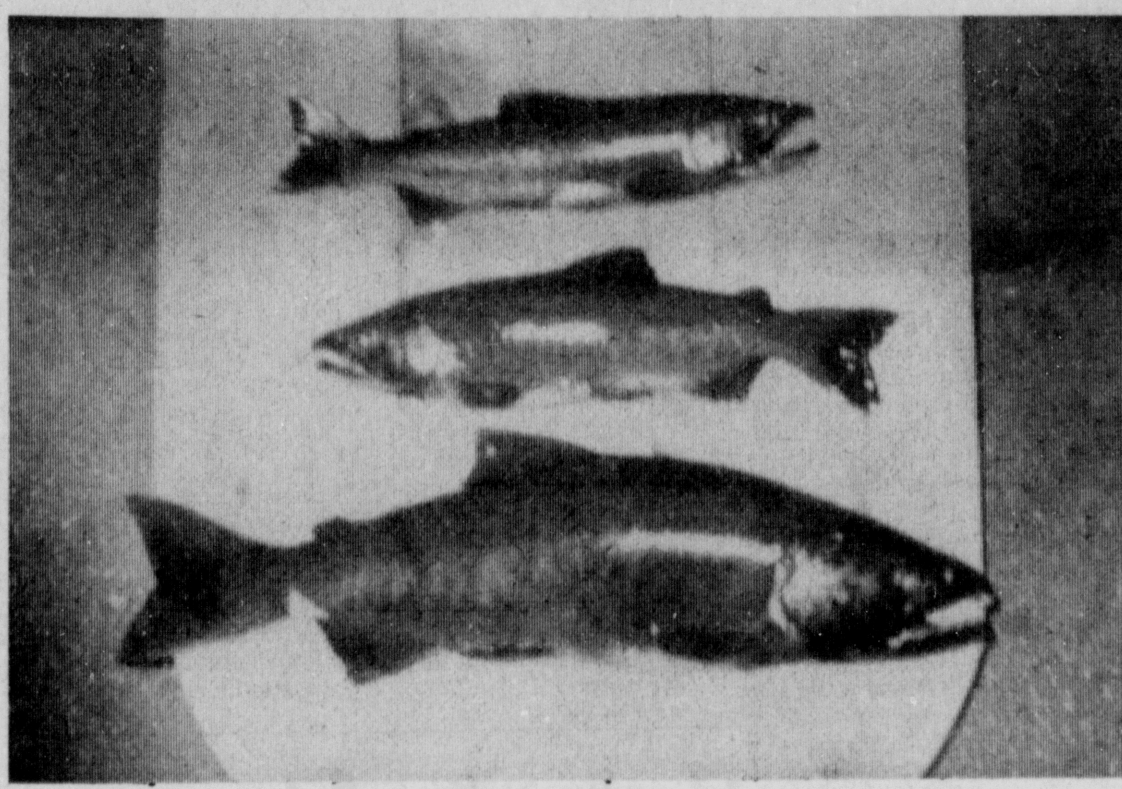

The elder Papandreou was placed under house arrest because of his age. His son was jailed and then released following a Christmas amnesty. A month later Andreas fled to Stockholm.

His father remained behind, closely watched by the government.

SPAWNING RUN SALMON taken from Haymeadow Creek on Thursday are hailed as the "good sign" that the planting of 100,000 cohos last spring will result in a successful run on Little Bay de Noc and the Whitefish River in the fall of 1969. Five jacks and one adult were taken by fish biologists of the Conservation Department. (Daily Press Photo)

Cohos Return Called 'Good Sign' For Run

By CLINT DUNATHAN
The cohos are returning to Haymeadow Creek on the Whitefish River where 100,000 were planted last spring — and Conservation Department fish biologists say this is the "good sign" everyone in the area has been waiting for.

Five jacks or precocious males and one adult coho were taken by the use of shockers on the Haymeadow Thursday, reports Dave Johnson, fish biologist in the Escanaba District. Smallest of the five jacks was 13.6 inches long, and the largest was 17.8 inches long and weighed 2 pounds 2 ounces; while the adult was 26.8 inches long and weighed 6 pounds 12 ounces. How the adult got mixed up in the run of jacks back to the planting grounds is a puzzle — but it was there nevertheless.

Coho Bonanza?
One of the five jacks bore fin clip markings, Johnson reported. It was among 25,000 marked fish among the 100,000 planted on April 17, 1968, in the Haymeadow some 11 miles above the mouth of the Whitefish River at the head of Little Bay de Noc.

"This is a good sign," said Johnson. "These are the first cohos we've found in the Haymeadow and the five jacks indicate that the majority will return for the run up the Whitefish in 1969."

The jacks are males that make the spawning run a year in advance of the other males, and their presence in the Haymeadow establishes that the hoped-for coho bonanza may become an actuality in 1969 in the Whitefish River area. "No one is predicting the volume of the run next year," said Johnson. "But at least the cohos are showing up at the place of planting, and that establishes that a run can be counted on."

Run Next Fall
The Haymeadow Creek branches to the east from the Whitefish River approximately six miles above Little Bay de Noc. The planting was made about five miles up the Haymeadow.

Three of the five jacks were taken from the stream above the Haymeadow Falls, while the others were taken below the Falls. The planting was made at the Haymeadow Camping Ground area.

This fall a few of the jacks were picked up in Little Bay de Noc in nets, indicating they were gathering in the area of the river mouth for a run; and the take in the Haymeadow on Thursday was the first of any of the planted fish at the planting site.

The anticipated run next year — when the majority of the planted 100,000 salmon can be expected to return — will occur in the fall. The signs are good for a successful establishment of cohos in the Whitefish River - Little Bay de Noc area, but only time will prove just how successful it will be, fish biologist Johnson cautioned.

Israeli Troops Invade Egypt; Bomb Bridges

TEL AVIV — (AP) — Israeli commandos, retaliating against recent Egyptian attacks, crossed the Suez Canal and penetrated 125 miles into Egypt Thursday night to bomb two Nile bridges and a power station, the Israeli army announced.

The damaging raid came five days after 15 Israeli troops were killed and 34 wounded in a battle across the canal which U.N. observers reported was started by Egypt. Israel claimed that at one point Egyptian commandos crossed the canal and engaged the Israelis, and made vain attempts to cross at two other points.

The Egyptian army claimed that an Israeli plane had carried out the Nile raid and said one civilian was killed and two wounded. Israeli sources scoffed at the Egyptian explanation, saying President Gamal Abdel Nasser could not admit to his people that Israeli soldiers could make a raid so deep into Egypt.

In a communique announcing the raid, the Israeli army said: "The action aims to make it clear that the Israeli army is able to retaliate against the Egyptian aggression."

The size of the raiding party was not disclosed.

The announcement said the targets included: The new Qena Bridge 280 miles south of Cairo, the Nag Hammadi Bridge 35 miles west of the Qena span, the Nag Hammadi transformer station near the bridge and a 500-kilowatt high tension line linking Cairo and Aswan.

It was not known how much damage was done.

Uncover Drugs In Portage Home

PORTAGE (AP) — Law enforcement officials staged an early morning raid today on a home in Portage, where Kalamazoo County Prosecutor Donald A. Burge estimated $250,000 worth of illegal drugs were produced weekly.

Three persons were arrested in Kalamazoo County and one other in Ingham County. Police said they were held for investigation of conspiring to manufacture, possess or sell hallucinogenic drugs, such as LSD. Burge said they would be arraigned in Portage Municipal Court today.

A federal narcotics official who declined to be identified said it was the biggest such operation in the history of Michigan and ranks with the biggest in the nation.

Burge said the house contained a large laboratory for the production of the drugs in liquid, crystal or powder form.

Saigon Is Bitter

By The Associated Press
Suspension of the bombing of North Vietnam angered the leaders of South Vietnam but was welcomed by many other governments which saw the move as a first step toward peace.

"This removes a tremendous obstacle to peace," said a North Vietnamese official at the Paris peace talks, "but now the political struggle for our country begins."

Hanoi Radio made no comment on President Johnson's announcement, but the official in Paris sounded one discordant note, pointing out that the President was continuing unarmed reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam.

"We want this stopped, too," he said.

Eight hours after Johnson's announcement Radio Hanoi still was repeating accusations that "U.S. peace falsehoods are a cheap tricky plot to obtain more votes for the Democrat party." But it usually takes a day or longer for Communist governments to formulate their instructions to their propaganda organs.

Reliable informants in Saigon said President Nguyen Van Thieu bitterly refused to go along with the bombing halt decision. He termed it "unilateral" and said he would make an address to a special session of the National Assembly Saturday.

Other Saigon government and political leaders were bitter. Nguyen Ba Luong, chairman of the House of Representatives, said: "Why don't the Americans continue to prevent the enemy from carrying out aggression? Why don't the Americans help us to go through to victory and freedom?"

In Thailand, a neighboring country in which the Communists are fomenting a guerrilla insurgency in the north, the Thai Cabinet went into an emergency session to discuss the U.S. move, but there was no official statement. More than 80 per cent of the bombing of North Vietnam has been carried out from six bases in Thailand where some 40,000 U. S. Air Force men are stationed.

New Zealand Prime Minister Keith Holyoake, whose government also has troops in Vietnam, called Johnson's decision "a major step in the search for peace" and added: "Everything depends on the good faith which the North Vietnamese and their Viet Cong supporters are prepared to display in return for this magnanimous gesture."

Reaction was optimistic in Australia, which has 8,000 troops in Vietnam. The Melbourne Herald said the world must hope the halt "can lead... to a healing of the terrible wounds of Vietnam and a reducing of the risk of spreading the war."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported President Johnson's order without comment. In Western European capitals, hope was expressed that the action would be a step towards peace.

The West German government said the decision proves again the U.S. government's readiness to end the war.

Presents Twist Before Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years and nine months after he started the bombing of North Vietnam, President Johnson has ordered an end to all attacks against that country in the hope this will "lead to progress" in ending the war in Southeast Asia.

Announcing his decision Thursday night, Johnson said he acted with the full support of his military chiefs and diplomatic officials, with the agreement of South Vietnam, and upon "confirmation" from North Vietnam of "the essential understanding" of U. S. terms for his action.

The Johnson order injected a dramatic new element into the presidential election contest less than a week before the voters go to the polls.

Political observers said it could give a lift to Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign, although it might have come to late to make much difference in voter opinion.

Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon, third party candidate George C. Wallace, and Humphrey all said after Johnson's television-radio broadcast they hoped the step would mean progress in the Paris peace talks.

Johnson had notified all of them of his decision about 6 p. m., two hours before he went on the air. Johnson himself, obviously aware of speculation that he might time a bombing halt to help Humphrey, declared that the action was determined by responses from North Vietnam to his terms.

He said these began developing Sunday night and continued through Monday.

A round of consultations within the government and with South Vietnam followed, and he made the final decision to order that "all air, naval, and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam cease as of 8:00 a.m., Washington time, Friday morning."

Johnson warned that his arrangements with North Vietnam are not foolproof and he held open by implication the possibility the bombing would be resumed if the North Vietnamese went on the offensive.

Negotiate Wednesday
"We could be misled—and we are prepared for such a contingency," he said. "We pray to God it does not occur."

Johnson started the bombing of North Vietnam Feb. 7, 1965. At the heart of the deal he made to bring it to an end is an agreement that the Paris peace talks will enter a new phase next Wednesday.

At that time representatives of both the South Vietnamese government and its enemy, the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, take their places at the negotiating table.

The President did not say specifically why he thought the North Vietnamese had finally decided to make terms on ending the bombing, but he suggested that they might have acted because they no longer saw a chance of victory in South Vietnam.

He said the Saigon government had "grown steadily stronger" that South Vietnam's army was increased to a million men, and that U.S. troops under Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Jr., and his predecessor, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, have "produced truly remarkable results."

Serious negotiations on the bombing issue began during the second week in October after the North Vietnamese in Paris began to ask direct and obviously interested questions about what Johnson had in mind.

Tempered Hopes
On at least two occasions—about Oct. 16 and again last week—there were worldwide expectations that a bombing halt was only hours away. They did not develop. Officials now say hard bargaining with Hanoi was then under way.

Johnson said he had reached his decision "in the belief that this action can lead to progress toward a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war." But again he tempered his hopes with warning.

"It should be clear to all of us at the new phase of negotiations which opens on Nov. 6th does not, repeat does not, mean that a stable peace has yet come to Southeast Asia. There may well be very hard fighting ahead. Certainly there is going to be some very hard negotiating . . ."

Apart from expanding the peace talks by adding the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front, the arrangement calls for re-establishing the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam and for a stop to enemy terror attacks on the cities and towns of the South.

Rocket Attack
Hours before Johnson acted enemy rockets fell on Saigon but U.S. officials said this did not violate the new bomb-halt

Railroad Strike Imperils Power

A temporary emergency order authorizing Wisconsin Electric Power Co. to ration electricity among its 57,000 Wisconsin customers was issued today by the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin.

The PSC issued a similar order last Wednesday for Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Wisconsin's parent firm. Both orders were necessitated by the severe shortage of coal at WEPCO's Oak Creek power plant. Coal supplies at the plant are rapidly dwindling due to a strike against the Belt Railway Co. of Chicago which handles coal bound for WEPCO.

The Oak Creek Plant provides two-thirds of the electricity needed by WEPCO. Wisconsin Electric purchases approximately 75 per cent of its energy from WEPCO.

"Electricity is not being rationed at present," J. K. Babbitt, vice president and general manager of WMPKO, emphasized. "So far we have not had to ask any of our customers to voluntarily cutback their use. We are doing everything we can to postpone rationing as long as possible. Hopefully some solution will be found for the coal shortage so we won't have to curtail the use of electricity."

Similar authority to ration service has been requested from the Michigan Public Service Commission.

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD BRAWLEY of Escanaba were $10,000 richer today after presentation of a Sweepstakes grand prize check by Swift & Co. Mrs. Brawley's winning entry was selected from millions received in the national contest. (Daily Press Photo)

No 'Tricks' On Halloween, Escanaban Wins $10,000

A casual 12-cent investment brought a $10,000 "treat" to an Escanaba woman on Halloween Day, Thursday.

Mrs. Bernard H. Brawley, 1020 5th Ave. S., was presented a $10,000 check by Swift & Co., as the sweepstakes winner in the "First Lady" national contest sponsored by the company.

Mrs. Brawley, beaming her approval, said she sent in two entries to the contest.

"It only cost me six cents for each stamp," she grinned.

Mrs. Brawley said she mailed entry blanks she found in a pair of women's magazines purchased in grocery stores. The contest involved only filling out entry blanks which were available in retail stores and in magazines and mailing them to contest headquarters along with labels or the words "Swift's Premium."

"I've never entered many contests," she smiled, "but this one was real simple."

Amount A Surprise
The winning check was presented by Carl E. Hartung, local Swift representative, along with R. F. Campbell, sales manager from St. Paul, Minn., James G. O'Connell, territory merchandising manager, Chicago, and Paul Lambert, Norway, district sales manager.

The presentation was made in the living room of the Brawley's comfortable, brick home. There were no Halloween tricks connected.

"When I handed her the check, she said 'Oh, a thousand dollars,'" Campbell said. "I said 'You'd better look at that again.'"

Campbell explained that Mrs. Brawley had been informed she was a major award winner in the contest, but did not know until about 11 a. m., Thursday that she was the grand prize winner.

Her husband, who is district manager for the Upper Peninsula of the Michigan Treasury Department, Revenue Division, took a tax man's view of the bonanza.

Move From Manistique
The Brawley family moved to Escanaba two years ago from Manistique, where they had resided for about 15 years. They have two sons, Thomas, 20, who is hospitalized at L'Anse with injuries received in an automobile accident while he was returning to Michigan Tech University where he is a student, and Gary, 15, a sophomore at Escanaba High School and a starting defensive tackle on Escanaba's undefeated football team.

"Maybe this will help Tom get well a little faster," Mrs. Brawley said.

When asked what she plans to do with the money, she said, she wants her two sons to "have the best education they can have . . . that they choose to have."

"After things settle down, then I think we'll all go out and have a great, big steak dinner and it'll be a Swift one," she beamed.

Campbell said that Mrs. Brawley's entry was selected from millions received in the national contest. The drawing was held in Chicago under the supervision of H. Olson & Co., a national judging organization.

Big Group To Hear Freeman

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman is scheduled to arrive at Escanaba Area Airport at 11:15 a.m. Saturday from Washington, D.C., via Detroit. Freeman and his party will be met at the airport here by Democratic candidates and a welcoming delegation from the Delta County Democratic Women's Club.

Freeman will address the traditional pre-election luncheon tendered to Democratic Party women by party candidates, at Teamsters' Hall Saturday noon. He will be introduced by George St. Louis, Delta County Democratic Committee chairman. Democratic candidates will also be introduced and speak briefly and a wig show

State Auditors Give Schools Clean Bill

A State of Michigan Department of Treasury audit of accounts of the Escanaba Area Board of Education has shown everything in good order, Donald M. Douville, field supervisor of the Local Audit Division of the Treasury Department reported today.

The examination was asked by the Board of Education and by interested taxpayers of the area to answer questions raised in elections on millage for school operation.

The audit of the school district's books took two weeks by a staff of five auditors headed by Douville.

Methods Approved
"The audit conducted by the independent auditors engaged by the school district for the fiscal year of 1967-68 was found to be in accord with standards adopted for reporting governmental units," said Douville.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carey and son Randy, of Muskegon, visited at the Ida Rochefort home for four days. Mr. Carey hunted while here and they also visited Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Rochefort and family of Fayette.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde K. Tobin and daughter Christine of Lansing visited for a week at his mother's home here, Mrs. Margie Tobin.

Visits Here
Miss Beth Tobin, daughter of Mrs. Margie Tobin visited her mother for several days recently. Miss Tobin is a teacher in Clarkston High School in Clarkston.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Horning and Mr. and Mrs. William Swear, spent several days visiting relatives and friends in Oconto, Green Bay, Lena, Appleton, Wis., and in Iron Mountain.

Area Books In Good Order:

"The accounting practices and systems as maintained by the Board of Education were in accordance with procedures established by the Department of Public Instruction."

"We found that the Escanaba Area School District is in need of additional revenue in order to maintain the present curriculum."

"The cooperation of the school district's employees with the audit was very, very good. The administration department and all the schools that we found it necessary to contact to make certain test checks and gather pertinent information from gave us complete cooperation."

No Fund Misuse
"A complete written report of the examination will be submitted to the Board of Education for public record within the next few weeks."

The school board auditor's forecast of a net deficit of $6,580.97 for the 1967-68 fiscal year was corroborated by the state's auditors.

"We found no evidence of any misappropriation of funds or misuse of funds under the jurisdiction of the board of education," said Douville.

Millage proposal opponents have publicly questioned the need for the school district's request for millage for school operation. The examination by the State Treasury auditors confirmed that the present school program operation would result in a deficit in this school year.

Voters of the Escanaba Area district will be asked Tuesday to consider approval of 4.9 mills for one year for school district operation.

The election will be the sixth on millage in the district since Aug., 1967. Five previous proposals have been defeated.

If voters approved 4.9 mills Tuesday, collection will be in tax bills of Dec., 1969. Revenue from the millage would be applied to retire the deficit expected from 1968-69 operations and hopefully also provide additional revenue for 1969-70 operation.

Poverty Stays Amid Affluence

In assisting the poor, we need to respect their pride and dignity and try to recognize the communications gap which exists between the different groups of society, keynote Dr. Howard McClusky of the University of Michigan told a conference in Marquette Wednesday. Dr. McClusky, professor of educational psychology, emphasized the need for eliminating barriers which place extreme limitations of choice on how some families live and earn a living. Anyone with simple answers will be welcomed by impoverished families, he indicated.

Also addressing the 120 conferees, meeting at Northern Michigan University, was Dr. Howard Brighton of Michigan State University who pointed out that although we are now in our seventh year of sustained economic progress — the longest continuous period of economic progress in our history — we still have 30 million people in poverty. Theme of the conference was "Understanding and Working With Impoverished Families."

Dr. Brighton, a former deputy director of the "War on Poverty" program, said "government alone cannot, nor should not be expected to eliminate unemployment or poverty. But no one can eliminate unemployment or poverty without the help of government."

Among those reporting on their personal experiences were Jim Bruce, Head Start director for the Menominee - Delta - Schoolcraft Community Action Agency of Escanaba.

The committee which arranged for the conference included Robert Olsen of the U. P. Committee for Area Progress, Escanaba.

Hope And Love Called Keynotes In Psychology

"Hope and Love" was the keynote of the presentation by Dr. Morse Tournay at the meeting of the Better Hearing and Speech Society Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce Building. Dr. Tournay has been chief psychologist at Newberry State Hospital since 1946.

Graduated from the University of Michigan, Dr. Tournay took his post graduate work at Queens College of Ireland and the University of London. He served his internship at the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., but he must relay hope and emotional disorders.

In the field of psychology one must not be only clinical but he must relay hope and love, he said. A case is hopeless if the psychologist does not help the family in this way. This support and concern enables the child to succeed in home and school situations, Dr. Tournay reported.

In treating a patient the speaker stressed the need to find not just what is wrong with him, but, more important, what is right with him.

Educational programs for brain damaged children are sorely needed as few such classes exist. Classes for emotionally disturbed children do not meet the need and result in being wastebasket programs. Schools should be geared to the needs of all children so that the needs of all children be served.

Mrs. Roland Peterson was program chairman for the meeting.

Nobody's Happy About The Time

Michigan votes Tuesday, Nov. 5 on a time standard in Proposal No. 2 and there's great indecision in Escanaba and Delta County about the issue.

The Delta and Schoolcraft County Boards of Supervisors, Escanaba City Council, Gladstone City Commission and Manistique City Council urged a "No" vote on Proposal 2, which asks whether Michigan should adopt daylight saving time by conforming to the federal Uniform Time Act, or exempt itself and reject daylight saving.

Delta, Schoolcraft, Mackinac, Chippewa and Lapeer counties in the eastern U.P. are now observing Eastern Standard Time. The official legal time for the Upper Peninsula is Central Standard Time because the U.P. is in the Central Time Zone with Wisconsin and not in the Eastern Time Zone with the Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

To get themselves into the Eastern Time Zone with the Lower Peninsula the eastern U.P. counties would have to get the approval of the U.S. Department of Transportation, which administers the time standards.

This is not at issue in the Tuesday election, only whether or not Michigan should observe daylight saving time. (The Michigan Legislature voted to exempt Michigan from the Uniform Time Act and daylight saving, but a petition campaign downstate by business interests resulted in Tuesday's referendum on the issue and suspended the Legislature's action.)

Many business interests in the Delta area strongly oppose the present time standard. Radio and TV stations get programs scheduled on Wisconsin time (Central Standard) and they're off an hour for U.P. communities with EST.

Ralph Norton of Clairmont Transfer Co. said that the Upper Peninsula's commerce is with Wisconsin and Illinois and not Lower Michigan. "Local government," he said "has come to a sick conclusion that it pulls business and commerce into being."

He said the truck line was losing four hours of communication a day in its operations out of Escanaba headquarters to the south, one hour in the morning, two at noon and one in the evening. "They still have an hour to go when we close here on Eastern Standard Time," he said. "We don't trade with ourselves in Michigan, we in the Upper Peninsula trade to the south through Wisconsin and Illinois."

About Our Own

In the fistful of ballots that will be voted in Delta County on Tuesday, is one asking voters to approve a 4.9 mill tax for Escanaba Area School District operation for one year.

It will be the sixth time since August, 1967, that operating millage has been proposed to voters of the district, which embraces the City of Escanaba and the Townships of Wells, Ford River and Cornell. The number of mills proposed and the length of the levy has varied in the effort to get taxpayers to pay more for operation of their local schools.

Most of the money for operation comes not from the district but from the State of Michigan and most would still come from the State even if the 4.9 mills were voted.

Our people have got their backs up against spending on the education of their children at the local level.

Our school taxes are not out of line with those in other comparable cities, nor would they be after the millage was voted.

Our schools are not "fancy" nor even very progressive in program; they are not, for instance, of the quality of the best schools in metropolitan suburban areas. They're just adequate to give our children the first rounds of schooling in today's modern education system, which sends most of our young people on to higher education or trade schools to learn career skills.

The problem of the Escanaba Area school administration is not so much to convince taxpayers that they have the 4.9 mills as it is that it would be a good expenditure.

The public insistence upon defeating millage for local school operation — five times in a row now — is variously motivated, but it includes these elements:

1. Most Upper Peninsula adults have not had enough schooling themselves to appreciate how important it is for their children, growing up in a very different situation with enormously increased demands for knowledge and skills.

2. Most adults believe they already pay too much of their income in taxes. School millage is the only chance they get to veto such government levies.

3. Most adults do not discriminate between poor schools, good schools and excellent schools. They're not qualified to judge their quality, although it is a very strong influence upon the development of their children. This quality is inseparably linked to public spending on education.

4. People who are getting ahead a bit financially hate to see their increased affluence leaked away by increasing costs like those for education, housing, transportation, medical care, food, etc. They fight costs where they can and here's a ready-made opportunity to vote "No."

5. There's not a public conviction yet that the public schooling offered is worth what it costs. Teachers have applied a lot of muscle through their unions — belatedly — and finally got their pay up where it should be and it's such a sharp increase, and teaching represents such a big part of the school budget, that the public resents it. It doesn't apply the Golden Rule where teachers are concerned.

The situation has deteriorated so much that we have had a huge turnover in our board of education membership as members tired of efforts to help the public create better schools. The proposal of a tax for only one year shows the "please, please" quality of the board of education's plea to the public for more money for the schools.

The Press recommends a "Yes" vote on the millage, as it has for the other 5 elections. It is dismayed that the parents of children in the schools could put this issue over and choose not to.

Hong Kong Flu Threatens You

Protective Forces Battle Flu Peril

A University of Michigan professor of epidemiology, visiting in the Far East, is being credited with sounding the first alarm to scientists in this country about the new Hong Kong influenza.

On July 26 Dr. Francis was flying from Europe to Japan. When the plane refueled in Hong Kong, he picked up a copy of the China Mail which reported a serious outbreak of influenza in the city.

Major pandemics of influenza usually follow a 10-year cycle. The last one — the Asian flu — occurred in 1957, and broke out in Hong Kong. In medical terminology, a pandemic disease is one that spreads far wider and affects far more people than an epidemic.

Suspecting that the July Hong Kong outbreak might signal a new world pandemic, Dr. Francis, as soon as he reached Tokyo, cabled Dr. Fred M. Davenport at the U-M School of Public Health his suspicions and had him alert American health authorities, including the surgeons general of the armed forces.

Dr. Davenport also began readying the U-M Virus Laboratory to examine samples of the Hong Kong virus as soon as they could be obtained.

Meanwhile, Dr. Francis was urging Dr. Hideo Fukumi of the Japan National Institute of Health to go to Hong Kong and help speed samples of the flu virus to Ann Arbor.

Dr. Francis had studied virology at the University of Michigan in 1949-50. Four ampules of the suspected virus arrived in Ann Arbor early in August.

"The tests took us about three weeks," Dr. Davenport said. "By then we realized we were dealing with a very major antigenic shift."

Periodically, the outer shell or "overcoat" of the influenza virus undergoes changes which, in effect, nullify existing vaccines. This is called an antigenic shift. A major shift, as has occurred in the present case, corresponds to a major style change in the virus' overcoat.

Then, like a woman with a new wardrobe, it's ready to travel.

During the summer weeks the Hong Kong flu reached out to Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, Australia, and India.

A flurry of reports were being exchanged by laboratories.

New Vaccine Needed
It became apparent that a new vaccine would have to be created to cope with the changed styling of the virus.

The original four ampules from Hong Kong could not be used because the processing had made them unfit for human use.

The U-M epidemiologists urgently sought a new line of the Hong Kong virus to start building a vaccine. Would Dr. Fukumi help?

Again luck rode with the scientists. An Israeli ship from Hong Kong had just anchored in Tokyo Bay with sickness on board: influenza. The virus had been brought to Dr. Fukumi's doorstep.

From the infected crewmen he isolated what is now being called the Aichi strain of the Hong Kong influenza virus and airmailed it to Dr. Francis. It reached the U-M School of Public Health Aug. 29.

Through the long Labor Day weekend, Assistant Prof. Elva Minuse processed the new samples in order to increase the strength and concentration of the virus.

Commercial Production
On Friday, Sept. 6, Prof. Minuse sent the U-M supply of the Aichi strain to the Division of Biological Standards in Washington. There it was divided and sent to commercial vaccine manufacturers.

At least one sample found its way right back to Michigan: to the Parke Davis & Co. laboratories in Detroit.

The health scientists began to breathe easier. Production forecasts indicate that millions of doses of the new vaccine will have been made by the end of December — enough to make a significant reduction in the amount of disease likely to occur during the flu season.

Meanwhile, additional studies of the virus in the U-M School of Public Health have turned up some curious findings.

Dr. Davenport says blood serum collected just last year from Michigan residents over 74 years of age contains an antibody that neutralizes the Hong Kong virus. This indicates, he says, "that something very much like the Aichi strain of influenza struck this area once before — probably in the 1890's."

In addition, in 1963, horses in the United States came down with a type of influenza that seemingly did not affect their human handlers. Studies now reveal a relationship between that equine influenza virus and today's Hong Kong strain.

Half Century Ago
Apparently the flu virus didn't manufacture itself a brand-new overcoat this year. It just decided to get more use out of a very old one.

Exactly 50 years ago the great influenza pandemic of 1918 reached its peak in the United States. Within a few months it caused 550,000 deaths in this country, and about 21 million around the world.

No specific virus was identified at that time. The first discovery of influenza virus in a human was in England in 1933; those findings were confirmed in 1934 by Dr. Francis. However, the U-M Virus Laboratory later played a role in establishing that the 1918 virus is the same which now causes influenza in swine.

Dr. Francis says all evidence available so far indicates that Hong Kong influenza is a much milder form of the disease than the 1918 pandemic. Its effect could be more like that of the Asian flu of 11 years ago, he says.

During the recent U-M studies one researcher became ill with the virus — the first such infection in the Virology Lab in more than 30 years. The researcher was only mildly ill and lost only half a day's work.

Canada defeated Australia in the Bridge Olympiad to finish fourth to Australia's fifth. A large part of the margin of victory came from today's hand, which typifies the free-wheeling style of bidding used by both Canada and Australia.

Many players would shudder at South's two heart overcall. We won't exactly shudder, but we doubt if we would have made it either.

We can't fault North's three heart call in the slightest, except from a result standpoint. Shorty Sheardown of Canada doubled. Bruce Elliott let in the double on the theory that Shorty could be depended on to know what he was doing. He opened the king of spades.

South took his ace and led a diamond to dummy's king and East's ace. East led a trump to dummy's ace. At this stage South decided to save what he could from the wreckage. He led a second diamond from dummy. East was in with the queen and knocked out dummy's last trump. South led a third diamond from dummy and ruffed it. Then he played a club to West's queen. West led a spade. South ruffed this for his fifth trick and still had to make his jack of trumps to get off for down three against the 5-0 trump break, with all finesses going wrong.

The bidding proceeded the same way at the other table. Eric Murray, who likes to bid whenever it is his turn, also overcalled with two hearts. Sammy Kehela doubled him to three and East raised him. Then came the save. West took out to three spades and played it there.

He did lose the two trump tricks, but because both the club and diamond finesses worked for him and since he was able to ruff out the ace and king of hearts to establish dummy's queen for a club discard, he made four odd but Australia still lost 630 points or 12 International Match Points on the hand.

Ann Landers

Discipline Children, But Not On Street

Dear Ann Landers: I took my three- and five-year-olds shopping last Saturday when my sister failed me at the last moment and I had no one with whom I could leave them.

The kids behaved like animals. They raced down the aisles, pulled merchandise off the racks and made a lot of noise. I decided to discipline them on the spot rather than wait till we got home. Youngsters have short memories, you know.

As soon as we were on the street I walloped them both and of course they yelled. A woman rushed over and shouted in my face, "Are you having fun beating those kids, Lady?" I told her to mind her own business. Then a man came up and informed me of a law against "child beating."

I was not BEATING my children, I was spanking them because they had it coming. Where do people get off making such remarks — and right in front of the kids? Comment, please. — A GOOD MOTHER WHO BELIEVES IN DISCIPLINE

Dear Mother: You did the right thing — but you chose the wrong place. Children should not be spanked on the street. You should have waited until you got home and explained to them on the way what they were going to get and why.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife has been ill for the last week and I've been trying to take over for her. Now I know why some women never get their housework done.

There are two secrets to keeping house. One: Plan your work before you start and stick with each job until it is finished. The woman who leaves the kitchen half done to make the beds or place a telephone call will never make it.

Second: Don't switch on TV. It will convert the iron in your blood to lead in the fanny. Twice I got hooked on TV — thinking I could walk away from it. The darn thing ate up my entire morning.

P.S. Maybe I should tell you that 23 years in the Navy as a White Glove Inspector gave me an edge on most men. — RETIRED C.P.O.

Dear C.P.O.: An edge, you say? You White Glove guys are the best housekeepers in the world. Thanks for the P.S.

Dear Ann Landers: My 17th birthday is next month. Last night my dad told me I have to cut my hair by then or forgo all privileges, including the car and 50 per cent of my allowance. He says long hair is a symbol of rebellion and he has let me rebel for 18 months and it's time I got it out of my system.

My hair is down to my shoulders and falls in nice waves. I keep it clean and neatly trimmed. It is even and not scruffy looking. If I cut my hair I will have to set it every night. Please be on my side and say no in print. Thanks.—HAIR

Dear Hair: Please tell me if you are a boy or a girl. The answer will influence my decision. If you're a boy, waves to the shoulder are too much. Settle for sideburns, let your ears show, and the back should not hide your shirt collar.

Passer-By Wins Buxomy Contest

EAST LANSING (AP)—Cows competed with coeds at Michigan State University Thursday in a bust measurement contest, but student judges howled down the four-footed ringers.

Declared the winner was Catherine DePuydt, a 19-year-old sophomore from Holland, whose vital measurements, after several checks, were declared at 43½ inches.

Runnerup was Gay Lynn, 21-year-old senior from Clarkston, with 38½ inches.

Only three girls and two cows entered the contest. One girl ran away crying, frightened by a pushing and shoving mob of more than 1,000 male students.

The crowd of male admirers climbed trees and hung from lamp posts and ledges of buildings to watch the measurement.

Several other coeds also were scheduled to enter but decided against it when they saw the male mob yelling and wolf-whistling at the two lone remaining female entries.

The contest was sponsored by the SNOBBS, a group dreamed up by Howard Gabe, a writer for the state news, MSU campus newspaper. The initials stood for State News Organization Boosting Buxomy Students.

Winner in the cow class, entered by the school of veterinary medicine, was Susy Brown, a Holstein, with 99-inch measurements.

"I just wandered by," declared the coed winner, "and

Proposal 4 To Bolster State Fish Plantings

By KENNETH S. LOWE
Of Panax Newspapers

If Michigan voters approve Proposal No. 4 in next Tuesday's election, $23.7 million will become available for fisheries projects, several of them in the Upper Peninsula.

The proposal calls for a $100 million bond issue to finance a broad program of recreational development in the state, including $40.8 million for a park acquisition program, $14 million for land acquisitions for wildlife and $4.5 million for state forest recreation development.

Funds raised through the bonding program would provide $17.7 for the fisheries projects, and the remaining $6 million would come from federal matching funds.

Asked how the $23.7 million in fisheries monies would be spent, Henry Vondett, Marquette, regional fish biologist for the Michigan Conservation Department, gave this breakdown:

For hatcheries — $10 million. Of this amount, $3.5 million would be for completion of the Platte River hatchery, $3 million for a warm water hatchery in Southern Michigan and $3.5 million for a trout-salmon hatchery on the Manistee or Jordan Rivers and a small number of raceways at the Little Manistee station.

Seney Hatchery Plan

There is nothing in the bonding program for a hatchery in the Upper Peninsula, Vondett said, although long range planning includes a hatchery in the Seney area eventually for rearing trout and salmon. Michigan Conservation Department crews have found suitable ground and surface water along the Fox River near Seney, Vondett said. Meanwhile, fish for planting in the Upper Peninsula would be hatched and reared in downstate facilities.

For stream protection and access — $9 million. This would be primarily for acquisition and development of wild stream frontage, especially on streams suited for anadromous fish (steelheads and salmon), such as the Big Huron in Baraga County.

For spawning habitat acquisition — $1 million. This would cover mostly purchase of land for northern pike spawning marshes.

Fish Weirs

For small impoundments — $200,000. Most of these would be located in Southern Michigan.

For fish passages and weirs — $2.5 million. Probably all of these would be in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula. They would be built around falls that block fish runs.

For fishing piers — $500,000. Mostly in metropolitan areas.

For Great Lakes stations and vessels — $500,000. This would cover buildings at Marquette, Alpena and Lake St. Clair for fisheries management and research operations and would provide fisheries management vessels like the "Steelhead" for Marquette and Alpena.

Launched in Escanaba last year, the "Steelhead" is assigned to Charlevoix and used by the department for fisheries operations mostly in Lake Michigan, although the vessel made one trip to Lake Superior this fall. If the bonding proposal is approved, a similar vessel would be based in Marquette and operate exclusively on Lake Superior.

Olds Sets Record

LANSING (AP) — Oldsmobile built 75,683 cars in October, an amount "greater than any other month in Oldsmobile's history," Harold N. Metzel, the division's general manager and a General Motors Corp. vice president, said Thursday.

"There is no doubt," Metzel said, "but what the styling and engineering improvements in our new cars have pleased the public to a greater extent than Oldsmobile has ever before experienced."

October's production exceeded the former record established last May by more than 3,000 units.

PEDESTRIAN TRAFFIC was congested on Delta Ave. Thursday afternoon when Junior and Senior High School students were doing their annual Halloween painting on the store windows. Three seventh grade students painted the weird scene on the Daily Press window. Bobby Anderson and Lynn Alanko were putting the finishing touches on their creation but their partner, Cherie Stevenson, had to leave for a dental appointment before it was finished.

Churches Aid Starving Biafra

NEW YORK (AP) — Blockade-running church agencies have stepped up their risky night flights of food to embattled Biafra, but it's still not enough to avert one of the worst human catastrophes of modern times, says a priest who has traveled that treacherous route from the first.

"There's no disaster of the 20th century to compare with what's happening to the people there apart from Hitler's slaughter of the Jews," says the Rev. Dermot Doran, a Catholic missionary and coordinator of relief flights to the hungry area.

By conservative, on-the-scene estimates, at least a million Biafrans have died of starvation in the last four months, and Father Doran says nearly that many more are likely to die by the year's end unless bigger planes are obtained to increase the cargoes.

"We're getting the stuff in, and we've increased the number of flights to 10 a night, averaging a daily total of 100 tons of supplies," he says. "But it's not nearly enough. The need is about 10 times that—about 1,000 tons a day. And we can't get it in without heavier transport. That's absolutely vital."

Working together, Protestant, Orthodox, Jewish and Catholic agencies are pouring in aid from many countries to the offshore West African island of Sao Tome, he says, and flying it by night into the besieged region, shrinking under pressure of Nigerian federal troops.

"It's the greater example of practical ecumenism that has ever taken place in history," Father Doran says. "All the churches are united in this. But we have to operate like bootleggers under constant threats. Our planes get shot at all the time. Some of them come back with holes in the wings and belly."

Here on a quick trip to fill in church leaders on the situation, he says the urgent need is some larger cargo planes to take over the night runs from the smaller, chartered by the churches from five private companies.

"About the only one who has the larger C130s is the U.S. government, other than one commercial firm and it wants $1.5 million a month to charter one of them," he says. "No church agency has that kind of money. We're getting plenty of foodstuff from church people, if we only had a way to move it quickly enough."

He says appeals have been made to President Johnson and the U.S. State Department about the matter, but with no response so far.

"It's purely a humanitarian cause, without any politics attached to it," he said.

Students Voice Opinion On Texts

ROYAL OAK (AP) — A group of Royal Oak Kimball High School students has won a voice in selecting new textbooks after protesting that books now used give inaccurate representation of minority groups.

The students, led by senior Glenn Briggs, sought help from the school's student government, the Roundtable, in their campaign.

Principal Jack Stephan expressed no concern over the students' action, declaring: "Kids have been encouraged to not only look and evaluate but also to speak out."

The Roundtable appointed a committee of five students to work with teachers and the school administration in screening textbooks.

Instruction For State Troopers

EAST LANSING (AP) — The first in a series of 11 in-service training schools for Michigan State Police officers is planned for Nov. 12 at the National Guard armory in Lansing.

Two-day instruction sessions also will be conducted at Jackson, Dowagiac, Detroit, Ypsilanti, Wyoming, Gaylord, Bay City, Marquette and Manistique later in the year.

Some 1,500 officers are expected to attend the session, which will deal with such topics as new legislation and court decisions affecting law enforcement, police-community relation and defensive tactics.

The department tentatively plans to conduct three such in-service training programs yearly in the future.

No Major Unions Join UAW Fold

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Auto Workers, which broke with George Meany's AFL-CIO and formed an alliance with the outcast Teamsters, has failed in a bid to lure another major union into its fold, informed sources say.

Overtures by Auto Workers President Walter Reuther were rejected by the 200,000-member Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International.

The Oil Chemical Workers, headed by A. F. Grospron, earlier this year joined Reuther in giving major financial and other help to the Negro Poor Peoples' Campaign here, at a time when the AFL-CIO was maintaining an aloof attitude toward it.

Grospron, whose union is heading into oil industry negotiations covering some 60,000 members, reportedly has decided against alienating Meany by signing up with Reuther's Alliance for Labor Action.

Reuther, a cofounder with Meany of the 13.6-million member AFL-CIO in 1955, pulled his union out of the federation earlier this year after a long running fight over policies on organizing, helping the poor, legislation and other matters.

Bullfighters

Of approximately 125 major matadors in the history of bullfighting, 42 have been killed in the ring. Belmonte, considered the greatest of them all, was not killed in the ring although he was gored more than 50 times, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Teamsters were kicked out of AFL-CIO in 1957 on corruption charges.

While the Auto Workers, with 1.6 million members, and the Teamsters numbering 1.8 million, are the two largest unions in the nation, the refusal of most other unions to join leaves them standing alone against the still powerful bulk of the AFL-CIO.

Grospron's problems in upcoming oil industry negotiations illustrate the difficulty of any union in bucking the labor establishment.

The complexity of modern industrial bargaining increases the interdependency of unions, and Grospron is not about to risk the financial and moral support he can expect from the AFL-CIO.

The Oil Chemical Workers, starting negotiations with a demand for some 25 per cent in increased wages and fringe benefits over three years, are up against a highly automated industry which could take a long strike without much interference with production.

It is apparently these realities of collective bargaining that led Grospron to decide to stick with Meany's AFL-CIO.

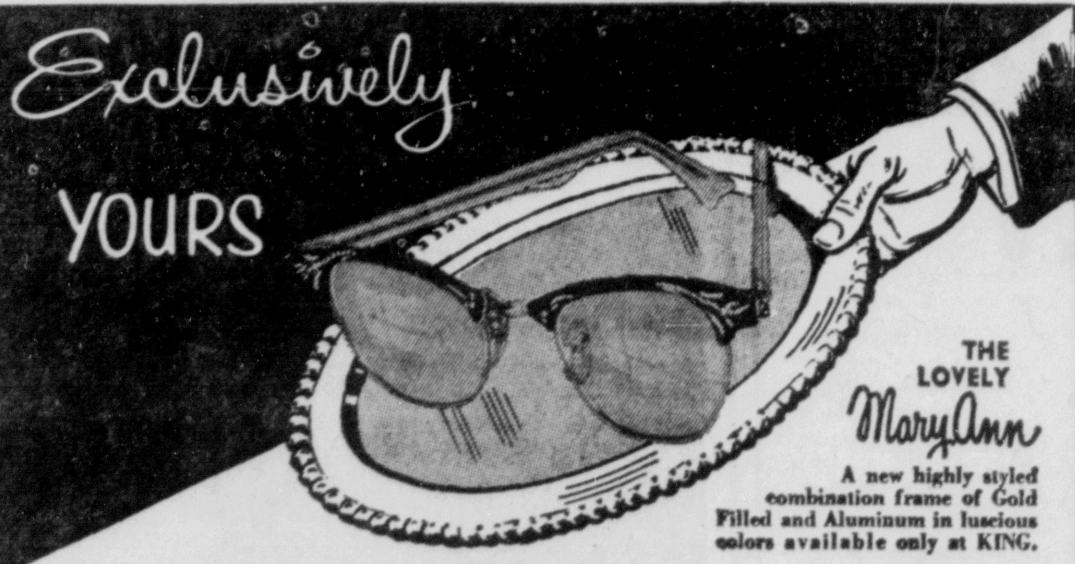

The only recruit Reuther has signed up so far, besides the co-founding Teamsters' Union, is the smaller AFL-CIO International Chemical Workers Union with about 100,000 members. But even that union did not give up its AFL-CIO affiliation in signing up with the Alliance a month ago.

Eight Men Vie For County Board

Schoolcraft County voters will choose seven supervisors from a field of 14 on Tuesday to serve on the newly created District Board of Supervisors.

Following is a brief biography and statement from eight candidates who seek city nomination to the District Board.

Dist. No. 4 - Thompson Township and west section of the City of Manistique.

Republican Clarence H. Johnson, 46, 1105 West Lake Shore Drive, is an Inland Lime & Stone Co. employee and has resided in the Schoolcraft County area since 1935.

Johnson says he seeks election to the District Board because "the time has come when all citizens must take an active interest in all government affairs - whether local, state or federal. If elected, I'll do my best to contribute to the betterment of our county."

Ernest Hoholik, 44, is a lifelong resident of Thompson who is opposing Johnson on the position he has held for eight years. For three years he was administrative assistant with the Michigan National Guard. He is a 1948 graduate of Manistique High School, a lifelong resident of the Manistique area.

Republican Richard Ketcik, 33, lives at 145 New Delta Ave. He is an employee of the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co.

Active Jaycee Ketcik has been active in the local Jaycees and served as local chapter president, state district vice president and state national director. In 1966 he was named as one of the "Outstanding Young Men in America" by the Jaycees.

Ketcik is a two-year veteran of active duty with the Army and is a member of the National Guard. He is president of the Schoolcraft County Cancer Society, president of the Manistique Little League, and vice president of Local 224, United Papermakers and Paper Workers. He is also a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Candidate Ketcik's statement: "I have decided to become a candidate for the office of County Supervisor because I wish to express my interest in the people and our county government. I have become involved in civic activities to help improve the area."

Democrat Norman W. Jahn and Republican John P. Quick oppose each other for representation of City District No. 6.

Quick, 37, has been active in the Elks Lodge and served as its exalted ruler; is a past president of the Manistique Jaycees and for six years was commanding officer of the local National Guard.

A graduate of Manistique High School, he is employed as a pharmacist with A. S. Putnam Co. He and his wife, Marcella, live at 354 Lake St. with their three children.

Democrat Norman W. Jahn, Quick's opponent in City District 6 is owner-operator of Jahn's Saloon and served four years on the area board of education. He is a life-long resident of Manistique and graduated in 1926 from the Manistique High School. He has been in the tavern business since 1933. Jahn is a member of the Manistique Elks Lodge and lives with his wife, Edna, at 519 Cherry St. They are the parents of two children.

Blue Cross Jahn said, "I don't believe in Blue Cross making a profit off our hospital and if the hospital loses money, we'll be the ones to foot the bill. The surplus should be controlled by the county board. I don't believe in the city or county allowing the state and federal government to acquire private property for recreation or other purposes."

Republican Edward J. Jorgenson faces opposition from Democrat David A. Rood in City District 7.

Jorgenson, lives at 650 Arbutus Ave., with his wife, Ann. They have one daughter.

Jorgenson is a four-year veteran of World War II and has been active in veterans projects. He served as commander of both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He served 9 years on the Lutheran Church Council Board and is now institutional representative for Boy Scout Troop 400 and Committeeman for Troop 402.

Jorgenson was born and raised in Menominee, attended public schools there and graduated from the Menominee County Agriculture School. He has been a Manistique resident since 1945 and is employed at the Inland Lime and Stone Co.

Effective Government

"If elected, I certainly would do my best to help achieve effective government," he said.

Trout Taken On Two Hearted

Some pre-winty blasts have been blowing out of the north the past few days bringing with them the first snowfall. Only the hardier souls are sticking it out at the mouth of the Two Hearted River. They are wearing mittens to catch fish. Rough seas have discouraged most fishermen on the Great Lakes, connecting waters and the larger inland lakes.

Large flocks of snow geese have been winging their way southward most of them above low flying clouds and boosted along by good tail winds. Some flight ducks are coming down and are found on the larger bays, large inland lakes and Great Lakes connecting waters. Partridge hunting has not changed from the previous week.

Walleye: Fair to good catches are being made on Big Manistique Lake when calm weather prevails.

Northern Pike: Good catches are reported from Shell Lake, Chippewa County though the size range is small; some pike reported from Milakok Lake, Mackinac County; Round Lake and Blind Sucker Flowage, Luce County.

Yellow Perch: Good catches still reported from Emerson Bay Area of Lake Superior; Round Lake and Blind Sucker Flowage, Luce County and Milakok Lake, Mackinac County.

Rainbow (Steelhead) Trout: Best catches reported taken from the Two Hearted River, and also a few nice fish from Camp 8 and Little Lake, Luce County. Some fish taken from Pendills and Halfaday Creek, and Soo Power Canal, Chippewa County; mouth of Thompson Creek and Dutch Fred Lake, Schoolcraft County.

Coho (Silver) Salmon: There are still a few stragglers coming into Thompson Creek - these are both Alaskan strain and the Oregon strain of fish. Some small salmon have been taken in West Bay at Grand Marais and a few spawners have been noted in Pendill's Creek, Chippewa County.

Brown Trout: An occasional large fish is taken at Pendill's Creek, Chippewa County and Thompson Creek, Schoolcraft County.

God forgive us.

Next time you flush your toilet, remember this. It's probably going straight into a nearby lake or stream. The same lake or stream you'd like to swim in. Or fish in. Or boat in. But all too often you can't. 900 miles of Michigan streams already look and smell like open sewers. Fish are being poisoned by fetid filth. They're suffocating in oxygen-robbed water. The very water you drink is bombarded by crud and waste minute after minute. Day after day. Lakes Erie and Michigan are dying. We're in trouble. But it's not too late. The situation can be corrected now. Just remember. The longer we wait, the dirtier our water will get. The longer we wait, the more it will cost. Isn't it time you took a stand to make our water clean? Think about it over a glass of water.

Partisan Campaigns Brisk For Delta County Offices

Delta County Democrats have four candidates for county offices and the Republicans have three candidates in the election to be held Nov. 5.

County offices to be filled are those of prosecuting attorney, sheriff, county clerk and register of deeds, and county treasurer. All terms are four years.

The Democratic candidates are: Nicholas P. Chapekis for prosecutor, Harold O. Finman for sheriff, William E. Butler for county clerk and register of deeds, and Myrtle V. Ottensman for county treasurer.

The Republican candidates are John R. Beauchamp for prosecutor, Carlton R. Olsen for county clerk and register of deeds, and Irene E. Olson for treasurer.

They have no candidate for sheriff, thus assuring the election of Finman without opposition.

Campaigning Heavy

Except for one term in the office of county clerk a number of years ago, Delta County offices have been in control of the Democrats since 1932.

In the primary election on Aug. 6, Democratic candidates outpolled the Republicans except in one instance, the contest for nomination for county treasurer. Republican Irene Olson, unopposed, received 982 votes; while Myrtle Ottensman, Democrat, polled 737 votes in a field of eight candidates to win nomination.

The primary vote for other candidates: Chapekis, D-1875, Beauchamp, R-970; Butler D-1951, Olsen R-939.

Finman, unopposed for nomination for sheriff in the primary, garnered 2018 votes on the Democratic ticket.

Campaigning by both parties has been intensive in Delta

County in advance of the election. Rallies and meetings, advertising and endorsements, have been building toward a climax this weekend. The result is expected to be one of the largest voter turnouts in any presidential election in many years in Delta County.

Delta County Republicans have candidates for prosecuting attorney, county clerk and register of deeds, and for county treasurer. They do not have a candidate for sheriff on the ballot.

The candidates are:

JOHN R. BEAUCHAMP, 1611 S. 16th St., Escanaba, an attorney with offices at 1016 Ludington St., seeks the office of prosecuting attorney.

Prior to opening his law office here in September, 1967, he and his family resided for eight years in the Detroit area where he was associated with a law firm.

Born in Escanaba, he attended St. Anne's School and graduated from Escanaba High School in 1951. His parents are the Lawrence Beauchamps of Ford River Road. He served two years with the U.S. Army, attended Ferris State College and Northern Michigan University, and received his degree in law from Wayne State University Law School.

He is affiliated with Delta Theta Phi, national legal fraternity; is a member of State Bar of Michigan and the American Bar Association, and presently is secretary-treasurer of the Delta County Bar Association.

CARLTON R. OLSEN, candidate for county clerk and register of deeds, was born in Escanaba in 1925 and graduated from Escanaba High School in 1943. After graduation he entered the U.S. Navy and served for 30 months in the Pacific area.

For the past 14 years he has been employed by Olsen & Flath Construction Co., Escanaba.

He is a member of the American Legion and the Highland Golf Club and for the past six years has been the recording secretary of Carpenters Local 1832.

Actively interested in civic affairs, he was elected in 1963 to the Escanaba Area Board of Education, and served until 1966. He was president of the board for one year and treasurer for two years.

MRS. LEONARD (IRENE) OLSON of 627 S. 17th St. is the candidate for county treasurer. She was born in Cornell, is a 1939 graduate of Escanaba High School, is married and the mother of four children. Her husband is representative for the Prudential Insurance Co. in Escanaba.

Mrs. Olson has 19 years of financial experience, including 13 years in banking, three years in loan office, and three years in bookkeeping.

She was employed at the State Bank of Escanaba for about six and one-half years, later joined Liberty Loan Corp., then returned to the State Bank before accepting a position in the business office of the Escanaba Area Public Schools two years ago.

The Democratic candidates for offices in Delta County are: NICHOLAS P. CHAPEKIS, who is seeking reelection as prosecuting attorney, and has served continuously in the office since 1952.

He was born in Escanaba, one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Chapekis. He graduated from Escanaba High School with a scholarship to the University of Michigan. The war interrupted his studies and he served 40 months in the U.S. Army, was 13 months overseas and won six battle stars. After the war he returned to the University of Michigan where he received Bachelor, Master and Law degrees.

He began the practice of law in Escanaba in 1949. In his profession he has won distinction as vice president of the Michigan Prosecuting Attorneys Association, as president of the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Northern Michigan, was awarded scholarships by the National Prosecuting Attorneys Association, and has served as a committee chairman of the National District Attorney's Association. He is a member of the State Civil Rights Commission.

Chapekis is active in civic affairs and was honored as the Jaycee's "Man of the Year."

HAROLD O. FINMAN, candidate for sheriff, was born in Escanaba on July 26, 1915. He has served as sheriff since his appointment in June, 1967.

Presently vice president of the Northern Michigan University Police Training Council, he is a past president of the Upper Peninsula Law Enforcement Association.

He graduated from Escanaba High School in 1934 and became a member of the Escanaba Police Department in 1937, advancing from patrolman to sergeant, then to captain and to chief in 1956. After 11 years as chief of police he resigned to accept the appointment as sheriff.

His qualifications include attendance at the FBI National Academy, Washington, D.C., from which he graduated in 1956.

WILLIAM E. BUTLER is seeking his fifth term as county clerk and register of deeds. He was first elected in 1952 and in most elections has had no opposition.

He graduated from Escanaba High School in 1931 and in 1935 was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Infantry Reserve in 1935. He was called to active duty with the U.S. Army in May, 1942, and his record of service won him the Normandy and Northern France campaign ribbons and the Purple Heart. He retired with the honorary rank of captain.

He is active in veterans affairs, is a member of several veterans organizations, is past commander of the Cloverland Post 82 of the American Legion and its present service officer. He is immediate past exalted ruler of the Elks Lodge.

Butler is president of the Michigan Association of County Clerks and is past president of the Michigan Association of Register of Deeds.

MRS. MYRTLE V. OTTENS-MAN is the wife of Ralph "Bud" Ottensman and resides in Gladstone. She is candidate for county treasurer, has been employed in that office for the past 12 years, and has been deputy treasurer for the past seven years.

The incumbent treasurer, Mrs. E. C. (Ann) Villeneuve, is not a candidate.

Mrs. Ottensman graduated from the Gladstone High School in 1935. Before her employment in the office of the county treasurer, she was four years secretary to Alger Strom, attorney and justice of the peace, and in World War II served one year in the office of the county treasurer at Olympia, Wash.

She has been actively identified with several civic and service organizations including the Gladstone Child's Welfare Club, the DeMolay Mothers Club, Band Boosters Club of the Gladstone High School, Girl Scout Council, Gladstone Golf Club, and PTA organizations.

TO HEAR THE STORY

OF THE

FIRST ANNUAL CATHOLIC SERVICES APPEAL

Nov. 5 Ballot, Proposal 2

Daylight Savings Time, Yes Or No

LANSING (AP)—Controversy and confusion surround the question which will be Proposition Two on next Tuesday's election ballot—the question of whether Michigan should continue observing Daylight Savings Time.

The confusion arises because even some people who have made up their minds on the question don't know which way to vote to express their preference.

It's really very simple, though: A "yes" vote is a vote for Daylight Savings Time. A "no" vote means the voter doesn't want to set his clocks ahead an hour each spring and back an hour each fall.

"We've got problems even within our own organization," says Dan Reed, secretary-manager of the Michigan Farm Bureau. The bureau opposes fast time and has all along. But, says Reed, some local bureaus still don't know which way to vote to help defeat it.

Michigan's great fast time controversy was started in Washington in 1966, when Congress voted to put the entire nation on Daylight Savings Time annually from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October.

The Federal Uniform Time Act of 1966 gave any state permission to exempt itself from fast time if it acted before April 29, 1967, using its normal legislative process to enact an exemption law.

Michigan did that. In 1967 the Legislature approved and Gov. George Romney signed a bill providing that all of Michigan would remain year around on Eastern Standard Time, as most of it had since the 1940s.

The Citizens Research Council of Michigan says Hawaii was the only other state to pass such an exemption, although Kentucky and Alaska were granted temporary exemptions.

Backers of savings time, however, circulated referendum petitions challenging the exemption law and succeeded in putting it on the ballot. Their success suspended the law, and as a result Michigan has gone on savings time this summer and last.

Sharled up with the Daylight Time issue is another section of the Uniform Time Act which put all of Michigan's Lower Peninsula on Eastern Time and the entire Upper Peninsula on Central Time.

The two eastern counties of the U.P. have ignored the law and observe Eastern Standard and Eastern Daylight Time like the Lower Peninsula.

How the vote will go in the Upper Peninsula is anybody's guess, because the issue is more between Eastern and Central Time than it is between Daylight and Standard time.

To get an idea of the difficulty in tailoring time zones to fit the lay of the land consider this: In Upper Michigan, Munising and Ironwood are both on Central Time.

Ironwood is due north of St. Louis, Mo., while Munising is due north of Indiana, in the southwestern most corner of the Lower Peninsula and on Eastern Time.

Arguments include:

FOR: Savings time gives people an extra hour of daylight after work—for fishing, golf or anything they want to do outdoors.

AGAINST: Michigan geographically should be in the Central time zone, not the Eastern zone. Thus Lower Michigan is already an hour ahead of the sun. Daylight time puts it two hours ahead and amounts, in effect, to "double-fast time."

FOR: Before Congress acted the United States was a hodgepodge of differing times and it took a Herculean effort to figure out what time it was in a given community. The Uniform Time Act will eliminate most of that confusion—but only if it applies all over the nation.

AGAINST: Savings time hurts farmers by whittling an hour off the work day. Many crops can't be harvested until the dew dries, and the dew doesn't pay any attention to the clock. But hired hands do—they want to knock off at 5 or 5:30 p.m. like everybody else.

The round tip toll will be $3 per car, an increase from $1.80. The move follows receipt of a telegram from the Railway Transport Committee of the Canadian Transportation Commission, which said the committee sees no reason for postponing the ordered hike.

The increase was ordered to pay off construction debts. The Canadian commission plans to hold a public hearing on the bridge finances. However, no date has been set for it as yet.

Increase Toll On Soo Bridge $1.80

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—An increase in tolls on the International Bridge connecting the United States and Canada at Sault Ste. Marie will go into effect today, officials said.

The round tip toll will be $3 per car, an increase from $1.80. The move follows receipt of a telegram from the Railway Transport Committee of the Canadian Transportation Commission, which said the committee sees no reason for postponing the ordered hike.

The increase was ordered to pay off construction debts. The Canadian commission plans to hold a public hearing on the bridge finances. However, no date has been set for it as yet.

CHECK HOUSE POWER
Numerous appliances added to your home over the years could be overworking the electrical system of your home. The average home uses 60 per cent more electrical power than 10 years ago and is expected to increase by as much as 65 per cent during the next decade. If you have to change fuses frequently, have dimming of lights or reduction of operating speeds of tools and appliances or shrinkage of the picture on your TV when lights are also in use these are warnings that you should consult a reputable electrical contractor. You may need to increase the capacity of service to your house by the utility or add more circuits and outlets. A residential circuit breaker installed in your home will be a quick indicator of a short circuit and will reduce the possibility of fire damage to the home.

Wagner previously received Flint's outstanding service award and an award from Michigan State University for distinguished service to agriculture.

Unusual Interior Featured

GARAGE in this four-bedroom house is hidden behind two windows at lower left. The one-story wing at the right, with its attractive bow window, houses the living room and the family room, thus permitting both to have cathedral ceilings.

By ANDY LANG

Even the most ardent advocate of a traditional house exterior is aware that the public will accept nothing less than the best in modern design on the inside.

This is a natural demand, since the interior must be compatible with the current manner of living as well as the new styles in materials and fabric patterns, innovations in floor and ceiling coverings, the clean lines of kitchen appliances and the like.

In this design, architect Herman H. York has incorporated a feature that gives an attractive and somewhat dramatic touch to two of the principal rooms in the house — the living room and the family room.

Both are two steps up from the rest of the rooms on the first floor. And both have cathedral ceilings, unusual to a two-family house. The high ceilings have been made possible because only a roof is found above them, an arrangement which is seldom seen. The second floor has been placed over the kitchen, dining room and garage, leaving the living and family rooms in their own one-story wing.

Another advantage of this layout is that, from the front, the house appears to be 62' long, rather than 42' plus a garage. And the one-story wing cannot be mistaken for a garage because of its large, charming bay window. A look at the artist's rendering shows more clearly than words the visual benefit of the plan.

The living room has plenty of wall space for arranging furniture as desired. The family room is toward the rear, for direct access to patio dining and entertaining. There is a fireplace with a full brick wall and a built-in log bin. And the two-step rise with its adjacent railing gives the impression of a balcony overlooking the kitchen-dinette area.

The dining room is completely separate, to the left of the foyer, a plan becoming increasingly popular with many housewives. The kitchen oversees the rear and ties directly into the laundry-lavatory area and the two-car garage. A dinette with large windows also looks out on the back terrace and garden. The garage is big enough to accommodate the largest of cars, plus a sizable storage nook for garden equipment and tools.

On the second floor are four bedrooms. One is planned to allow it to be used as the owners' sitting room by placing a door between it and the main bedroom. In the latter are a private bath and vanity, a linen closet and two walk-in closets. The hall bathroom has a double sink. Bi-fold doors are indicated for all closets to give full opening width.

A basement below the living and family room wing can be reached by a stair off the main foyer and rear outside entrance. Brick is used at the lower part of the house, horizontal siding at the upper section. A long covered portico and window shutters are among the pleasing traditional features.

RAISED FAMILY ROOM: View from dinette looking across and through decorative railing to raised family room, with brick fireplace and door, at left, leading to terrace.

Detroit 'Open' On Prostitution

DETROIT (AP) — A social-health study of the Detroit metropolitan area concludes that prostitution in Detroit is more "open" than in many other large cities.

The report released Thursday by United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit also said Michigan has the nation's fifth highest rate of gonorrhea and the sixth highest syphilis rate. In addition, the report charged that schools in the Detroit area are "inadequately staffed and financed" and "meager in scope."

The study said prostitution is flourishing in Detroit which has at least 5,000 known prostitutes. Forming a growing proportion are girls under 17 years of age, some as young as 13.

"Detroit is more of an open city as far as prostitution is concerned than many of the other large cities," the report said. "The committee found very little effort being made to rehabilitate and turn young girls away from prostitution."

Canadian Indians cross the United States borders under an old law assuring them free access as native North Americans, the National Geographic says.

Prepare Your House For Winter Weather Assault

By MR. FIX

Pleasant fall weather is among the best of the year but it doesn't last and you know it. While it's still nice enough to work outdoors, make sure your house is ready for winter's first attack.

Any minor damage or weakness may mean little now but left alone could become serious when attacked by cold, moisture and high winds.

Start your checking at the top and work down. Loose shingles should be nailed down before a high wind tears them away. Put a dab of asphalt under the lower edge, also over the nails to keep the nail heads from rusting.

Broken shingles should be replaced. Protect flashing with asphalt paint. Deteriorated flashing should be replaced and for this you may want to call in a professional roofer.

If flat roll roofing has bulged, slit the bulge, paint the undersides with asphalt paint and tack down. Then coat the patched area with more asphalt.

Check the chimney for loose mortar. Wet the area, then work in new mortar. Use a mortar mix for small jobs such as this.

Metal gutters may need mending; or rust spots may need sanding, priming and re-painting. Even if in good condition, gutters will need to be cleaned of accumulated leaves and dirt.

Check the ties or nails that hold the gutters to make certain they will hold the extra weight of ice and snow.

Check the siding for loose or blistered paint. Scrape away and spot prime so that the area will not be damaged by moisture. Loose boards should be nailed down. Spot prime the nail heads with aluminum paint, then repaint to match the house.

If your house is of brick or stone, check for loose mortar as you did with the chimney.

Old caulking around door and window frames and at inside corners should be examined. If shrunk and dried out, scrape away and apply new caulking.

Check window panes for loose putty. Scrape out old and replace with new. Use glazier's compound instead of regular putty. Replace cracked or broken panes.

Check the foundation for cracks. Scrape out loose material and undercut cracks so they are wider at the bottom than the top. Use concrete patching material. Be sure to caulk where wall and foundation top meet.

Porches and steps take the biggest beating from winter weather. Caulk where house and porch floor meet to keep water from seeping in. Nail down loose floor boards. Repaint floor if old paint is not

Brucker Buried At Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) —Former Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker was buried in Arlington National Cemetery Thursday with full military honors after services in nearby Ft. Myer Chapel.

The former "boy governor" of Michigan died Monday in Detroit at the age of 74. Death apparently was caused by a heart attack.

Brucker was Secretary of the Army under President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He was elected governor of Michigan in 1930 when he was 36 years old, serving one two-year term.

The flag-draped casket was carried from a hearse into the chapel by an eight-man honor guard. The service was conducted by retired Maj. Gen. Frank Tobey and the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church here.

Among those attending the service were his widow, their son, Wilber Jr., and his wife and two children; Sen. and Mrs. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., and two former Republican senators from Michigan, Charles Potter and Homer Ferguson.

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was first lady when Brucker was secretary of the Army, attended the chapel services.

Born in Saginaw, Mich., the son of a Democratic congressman, Brucker was graduated from the University of Michigan with a law degree in 1916. He became a Republican at about that period.

Comm. Sets Salaries For State Officials

LANSING (AP) — The new state officers' compensation commission Thursday set Nov. 26 as the target date for recommendations on pay rates next year for legislators and the state's top executive and judicial officers.

Lawrence Carino of Birmingham, general manager of WJBK-TV Detroit, was elected chairman at the organizational meeting of the seven-member group. Jay Vanandel of Grand Rapids was named vice chairman.

The commission has been given the responsibility of determining the pay for the governor, lieutenant governor, members of the legislature and State Supreme Court justices.

The commission scheduled a public hearing for Nov. 21 at the Lansing civic center to hear from organized groups and the general public.

The commission also will hear testimony from the state officials affected and other expert testimony at meetings, Nov. 6 and 15 and May hold another

Fight Pollution In Lake Superior

WASHINGTON (AP) —Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall has been requested by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to call a state-federal conference on what to do about the pollution of Lake Superior.

Since mid-summer, Nelson said in a letter to Udall, his staff has been collecting evidence on the growing problem of pollution in Lake Superior.

"We have made on-the-spot inspections of pollution sources on the lake," Nelson said, "examined data gathered by the state and federal agencies and discussed the problem with several scientists who are alarmed at the increasing pollution of this lake."

"All evidence indicates that the pollution of the lake is accelerating dramatically and constitutes a grave threat to the waters unless a pollution enforcement conference is called soon."

Nelson said he has also written to Secretary of State Dean Rusk asking him to prepare a memorandum to the International Joint Commission which could lead to a U.S.-Canadian study on ways of clearing up sources of pollution in both countries.

Mead Spending Millions For Pure Water

Plant Effluent Treatment Requires Huge Facilities

Americans are more concerned with the social order of the environment today than ever before. Preservation of the esthetic beauty of the land and the wise use of natural resources have become vital to man, who now spends far more time looking for new ways to enjoy life itself than in earning a living.

In the pursuit of his leisure-time pleasures, he found the water, land and air cluttered with foreign debris that not only hampered his pleasure but threatened his future life and economic growth.

Man, by virtue of his existence, is a polluter. Every phase of life presents some form of waste. Today, with the growth of America bringing people so close together, it's not a matter of placing this waste in a proper place but rather that there is no longer a "proper" place.

Water Most Abused
Water is probably the single most important natural resource to man, yet he abuses it the most.

Pollution of water is sometimes thought of as carelessness by irresponsible people or groups of people — and, if they were to collectively accept their social responsibility and dispose of their wastes properly, there would be no pollution.

If this were really the case, abating pollution would be relatively easy, but the problem is far more complicated.

For decades, it was considered "proper" for streams to be used as sewers to carry away man's wastes. While industry, municipalities and individuals alike were guilty of this abuse, industry was singled out as the major polluter of our streams.

Other Polluters
But when the technology for determining sources of pollution and their treatment became more sophisticated, soil erosion, city incineration, municipal wastes, sanitary sewage and other raw wastes generated by society were added to the roster of polluters.

The solution to the water pollution problem is not an overnight process. Combined efforts by industry, municipalities and individuals must be collectively and continually employed.

The American public has issued a mandate demanding streams be returned to a state that will allow swimming, fishing, boating — recreation in general.

Trend Set
Legislators, state and federal, have been responsive to this public cry, and have enacted ample legislation to control pollution. The trend has been set and from all indications will continue until virtually no pollution may become the effluent standard.

The cleanup program for streams in this country is costly. Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall reported to Congress earlier this year that it will cost the American people between $26 and $29 billion over the next five years to build and maintain adequate waste water treatment facilities.

Paper Industry Leads
To control and eventually eliminate stream pollution, municipalities will have to spend millions of dollars to install new facilities, expand and modernize existing treatment plants and increase its sewage systems.

to collect all the sanitary wastes being generated.

Long before the public and legislators became actively concerned about pollution, the paper industry initiated a self-imposed program of pollution abatement and control techniques. As early as 1943 the paper industry formed the National Council of the Paper Industry for Air and Stream Improvement.

As a result, the paper industry is one of the front runners

Proposal No. 3

Michigan voters will ballot on Tuesday, Nov. 5 on Proposal No. 3 to bond Michigan for $335 million to provide the state's share of a local-state-federal program for pure water.

It would help cities like Escanaba and Gladstone construct sewage treatment plants and sewers needed to end pollution of public waters by discharge of municipal wastes.

It's part of a huge national program to attack pollution and end deterioration of our natural resources. Mead Corp is making a big contribution to this program with the expenditure of millions on an effluent treatment facility, including a 40-acre settling basin, at its Escanaba Paper Co. mill at Groos on the Escanaba River. Despite huge expansion of the mill, its discharges into the Escanaba River will be purer than previously with smaller effluent.

ners in the development of good water management. Millions of dollars have been spent on joint projects sponsored by the Council, in addition to the millions spent by individual companies on research.

The paper industry has spent nearly $350 million on capital investments for water pollution control. Approximately 90 per cent of the mills are practicing some form of effluent treatment or specialized discharge control. Also, there is a growing involvement of industry personnel in constructive efforts to develop workable pollution control laws, regulations and action programs.

Escanaba Project
An example of a Michigan industry responding to the pollution problem is found in Escanaba where the Mead Corp. operates a pulp and paper mill.

Mead studied the Escanaba River, from which it derives its water supply, for several years. The objectives of these studies were: (1) Reduction of the amount of materials discharged from the mill; and (2) Measurement of the improvement in the quality of water in the river after installation of abatement equipment.

Once the character and abilities of the stream were established, it was possible to design effluent handling and treatment facilities.

A major step in the stream improvement program was the installation of a bark lagoon. This reduced effluent discharges by pumping the bark and losses from the ground wood pulp mill into a suspended lagoon.

In-Plant Program
While the lagoon was being installed, management conducted an intensive in-plant program to decrease the solid losses from the mill.

The Escanaba paper mill is the site of the largest single expansion project in Mead's history. But before the construction got underway, several months ago, many factors were considered. Water resources played a very important part in this decision.

Consideration had to be given to the availability of water, the quality of water for mill use and the possible effect of mill effluents on the receiving stream. Both state personnel and Mead technicians participated in this study.

Secondary Treatment
The new multi-million dollar treatment system is both primary and secondary, and the most modern and complete effluent treatment facility. It includes solids removal, dewatering of clarifier underflow and secondary biological treatment in an aerated lagoon.

The collection system includes four separate sewer systems: (1) a non-process effluent system; (2) a sanitary wastes system; (3) a bark pond for collection of refuse from the barking operation; (4) a process system for wastes carried by sewers from a new paper machine.

The effluent lift station collects mill process effluent.

Trucked To Landfill
Solids are removed from the water by a combination of a clarifier and centrifuge. The dewatered solid ("sludge") is then trucked to a landfill site.

After primary clarification, the effluent is treated biologically in an aerated lagoon. Here the oxygen, so essential to aquatic life, is replaced before the water is returned to the river.

Such expenditures are unlike the capital investments in new operating equipment and other facilities that, in turn, make for a profitable, expanding economy and full employment.

The cost of cleaning up pollution comes high both for businessmen who are finding ways to cope with industry's pollution problem, and the citizens who determine that municipal sanitary systems must be made capable of handling local sewage.

Mackinac Lands To Solve Gravel Trespass Charge

Action is scheduled by the Michigan Conservation Commission at its monthly meeting in Lansing next Thursday and Friday on acquisition of three parcels of land within the flood basin of a proposed flood control project on the East Branch of the Sturgeon River in Dickinson County.

Ownership by the public is required for completion of several flood control and fish and game management objectives of the project.

One parcel of 34 acres is being offered by Earl Dixon and others of Felch at $50 per acre. Another parcel of 5.71 acres from the estate of Donald Dixon is available on a purchase bid at $50 an acre. The third parcel of 40 acres is being offered for $5,500 by Hjalmer Jacobson of Iron Mountain.

The first and third parcels comprise a wooded tract which will be substantially flooded when the project is completed and includes the location of one of the dike structures which will confine the impoundment about five miles north of Felch. In another Upper Peninsula land transaction proposal, the commission is being asked to accept 560 acres of land in Mackinac and Ontonagon counties in exchange for a conveyance of all state-owned mineral and allied rights in lands in the City of Hancock involved in trespass litigation to which the Superior Sand & Gravel Co. of Hancock is the surface owner, together with settlement of the mineral trespass.

The offered lands consist of 480 acres in the Mackinac State Forest in Mackinac County and 80 acres in the Mishwabic State Forest in Ontonagon County. The first tract encompasses the old Hendricks Quarry in which approximately 340 acres of high calcium limestone is present, giving the parcel a substantial future mineral potential. In addition, all of the offered lands are considered a valuable addition to the state forest system.

The Michigan Conservation Department previously offered to settle the mineral trespass, which involved removal of gravel from the requested 80 acres in Hancock, for $10,000. The department's Geological Survey Division estimates the gravel reserves on this property have a value of $27,110, placing a total valuation on the trespass and reserves at $37,110. Total valuation of the offered lands is $39,350.

Auto License Sale To Start November 15

License plates for passenger cars will not go on sale until Nov. 15, Claude J. Tobin, manager of the Michigan Secretary of State's branch office in Escanaba, said today.

In previous years, license plate sales for passenger cars began Nov. 1.

The legislature changed the date for the start of the sale earlier in the year.

Radiation Cuts Down Life-Span, Fertility

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A five-year study of desert animals on the Nevada nuclear test site shows constant exposure to low-dose radiation cuts the life-span by half and fertility by a third.

In the first disclosure of results of an experiment with radiation of a type that survivors of a nuclear war would experience, Dr. Norman French said in an exclusive interview:

"Even such low-level radiation hastens the processes of aging, shortens the reproductive period in females and reduces the number of young per litter."

French, a University of California at Los Angeles ecologist heading the Atomic Energy Commission study, said the conclusions were based on regular censuses and examinations of more than 900 cheek-pouched "pocket mice" and hopping "kangaroo mice."

"Most radiation studies have been concerned with the effect on individuals of high-level doses, the type they would get immediately after a detonation," French said.

"We set out to learn what happens to whole populations subjected to low-level radiation over long periods of time. We are all subject to more radiation — from fallout and medical sources — than our grandparents experienced, but science really knows very little about the long-term effects.

"The radiation source used in this experiment, Cesium 137, has a long half-life, that is, it remains significantly radioactive for decades. The dosage was calculated at 1 roentgen per day, equivalent to about two chest X-rays a day — a level people might have to live with for long periods of time after a nuclear war or even after a reactor accident."

The mouse population varies greatly from year to year due to climatic changes, but the mice receive no food or water from the scientists. They have to live off the land.

The lifespan of the mice in the radiation-free pens has averaged four to five months. In the irradiated pen, it averages 2½ months. The average span of fertility—the number of months when a female mouse can reproduce—has been cut by a third in the irradiated pen. The litter size also is smaller as aging is accelerated, but statistics on this are not yet available.

"There is a lot science doesn't know about the processes of aging," French said, "so we are not certain just why they are speeded up by radiation. We do know more about fertility, and here the effect seems to be due to the fact that there is a point in development when the female's ova — egg cells — are especially sensitive to radiation damage."

Will Not Retrieve Pieces Of Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said today it is questionable whether an effort will be made to retrieve pieces of the nuclear submarine Scorpion it located Thursday two miles beneath the Atlantic about 400 miles south of the Azores.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, announced Thursday the Navy oceanographic research ship Mizar had confirmed the Scorpion's location in more than 10,000 feet of water "by means of remotely controlled photography."

The discovery climaxed a massive sea search of more than five months since the submarine disappeared with its crew of 99 while heading home from a Mediterranean exercise.

Nuisance Bear Real Traveler

Don Sharkey of Groos Hill, Aunting at Northland on Monday with his brother, Clem Sharkey of Escanaba, shot a male bear with a reported weight of 410 pounds.

The bear was ear-tagged and Joseph Vogt, District 3 game biologist of the Conservation Department, said that it had been live-trapped as a nuisance bear raiding the cabin area north of Northland on June 25 by Frank Marshall, of the conservation office at Gwinn. The bear weighed 237 pounds at the time it was trapped, said Vogt.

From the trap it was taken the same day to the west side of the Au Train Basin in Alger County and released.

From the point of release to the place where Sharkey shot it is 4 miles in a straight line.

It has been a bear year in the Upper Peninsula, with more bears reported than ever before in the memory of conservation officers. Al Harger, the conservation officer at the Cusino wildlife station, tagged over 100 nuisance bears at dumps and other places in the summer.

"We're hearing wild tales about bears," said Vogt. "There seem to be a heck of a lot of them around. One report had it that 7 of them were seen in one farm field."

Cable Ordered Out Of River

A cable stretching across the Ford River about one mile north of Hyde today was ordered removed.

Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas P. Chapekis said the cable was put across the river last year. He said the owner of the property on both sides of the river did not authorize its installation. He said the cable is illegal across a navigable river.

If the person responsible for the cable does not remove it, Delta County Sheriff's officers will take it down Monday. Chapekis said the cable is a hazard to boaters and also in winter to snowmobilers riding on the frozen river.

Delta County Board of Supervisors
Gladstone City Commission
Escanaba City Council

C. Elmer Olson (D) vs. Phil Miron (R)

Norbert Murphy (D) vs. Harold Vanlerberghe (R)

Five Supervisors To Be Elected

By DAVE ANDREWS

A new concept in government for Delta County will be implemented by voters in the general election Nov. 5.

Five supervisors will be elected from five voting districts.

The new supervisors will take office on Jan. 1, replacing the present 27-member county board. In taking office, the new supervisors will give Delta County total representation by popularly elected individuals.

Presently, Delta County's board includes the elected supervisor from each of the county's 14 townships, plus elected councilmen from Escanaba and elected commissioners from Gladstone.

Besides the elected officials, however, there are three other appointed members of the Board of Supervisors from Escanaba and the city assessor from both Escanaba and Gladstone, also an appointive position, is a member of the board.

There are seven candidates running for supervisor, but voters will see ballots with the names of the candidate or candidates only from their particular district within the county.

In three districts, Democratic Party candidates are unopposed for election, assuring Democratic control of the first five-member board.

Stanley Dominick of Ensign is unopposed in District 1, which is composed of Garden, Fairbanks, Nahma, Masonville, Ensign, Bay de Noc, Maple Ridge, Cornell, Baldwin and Brampton Townships.

Frank Stupak of Gladstone is unopposed in District 2, which includes the City of Gladstone and Escanaba Township.

H. George Nelson of Escanaba is unopposed in District 3, which includes Escanaba Precincts 5 (Washington School) and 7 (Webster School) and Wells Township.

The two contests pit C. Elmer Olson (D), Escanaba, against Phil Miron (R), Ford River, in District 3 and Norbert Murphy (D), Escanaba, against Harold Vanlerberghe (R), Escanaba, in District 4.

District 3 includes Ford River and Bark River Townships and Escanaba Precincts 2 (Jefferson School) and 3 (College). District 4 includes Escanaba Precincts 1 (County Building), 4 (old Jefferson School) and 6 (Lemmer School).

All of the supervisors will be elected to two-year terms.

The candidates: District 1 — Stanley Dominick, 40, Rte. 3, Rapid River. Dominick, who was born May 14, 1928, in Detroit, has been employed at the Escanaba Paper Co. for the past 17 years and is presently a laboratory tester.

A graduate of St. Ladislav High School and the Michigan Technical Institute, Detroit, Dominick worked as an electrician at Midland Steel Corp., Detroit, before coming to the Upper Peninsula. He served two years with the U. S. Army.

He is a member of St. Charles Church of Rapid River and of the Holy Name Society. He also is a member of the Rapid River Parent Teacher Club, serving one year as president, and was chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Better Education at Rapid River.

Dominick also has been a leader for six years of the Ensigns 4-H Club and served on the Bay de Noc Community College Citizens Committee.

Presents Twist Before Election

arrangement, not then in effect. Restoration of the DMZ has long been advocated by the United States in the Paris peace talks as a means of de-escalating the war.

For several years enemy forces have struck from or through the zone at American and allied forces in the northern part of South Vietnam.

U.S. bombers will continue to attack troops and supplies moving on the trails in Laos. U.S. commanders have orders to continue pressing the ground war in South Vietnam.

Officials also said Abrams has orders allowing him to retaliate quickly, without asking Washington, if the enemy attack from the DMZ or shell U. S. forces south of it.

Johnson said Thursday night that the decision to end the bombing was consistent with the requirements he had stated over the years.

He recalled that last August he had said he would not take the step without "good reason to believe that the other side intends seriously, to join us in de-escalating the war and moving seriously toward peace."

In his speech he made the case that he had found "good reason" in whatever responses he got from Hanoi plus the situation on the ground.

North Pulls Out

An estimated 40,000 or more North Vietnamese have been pulled out of the South in recent weeks, and there has been a lull in enemy offensive operations.

Last weekend Johnson summoned Gen. Abrams home from Saigon for a final face-to-face talk on Abrams' view of the bombing halt.

Abrams reportedly told the President he could live with a bombing halt because the North Vietnamese, having pulled back in various strategic areas, would require about a week to begin launching any offensive operations and he would thus have time to start counter-action.

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff, all military men, have assured me," Johnson said, "and Gen. Abrams firmly asserted to me on Tuesday in that early, 2:30 a.m. meeting—that in their military judgment this action (to end the bombing) should be taken now, and this action would not result in any increase in American casualties."

Continue Reconnaissance

On March 31, in a bid to get peace talks started, he limited the attacks to the southern panhandle of North Vietnam, which he said exempted 90 per cent of the people and about three-fourths of that country's territory from attack.

The meetings in Paris followed, beginning May 13, but on North Vietnam's condition that no peace-making issues would be negotiated until all "acts of war" against its territory had stopped.

North Vietnamese spokesmen in Paris said that "acts of war" included reconnaissance over its territory.

Officials said that North Vietnamese leaders understand that the reconnaissance flights will continue with unarmed planes.

Johnson ordered the bombing of North Vietnam Feb. 7, 1965 at a time when—as officials later admitted—South Vietnam was probably within a few weeks of collapse.

The bombing strategy then had two major purposes: To give the South Vietnamese a massive morale boost by carrying the war to enemy territory, and to cut down sharply on infiltration.

The bombing, followed by massive introduction of U.S. ground forces later in 1965, checked the tide of defeat in the South.

Officials gradually came to admit, however, that infiltration could not be effectively controlled by the bombing. After the Paris peace talks started May 13 infiltration soared during the summer to an estimated 30,000 men a month, according to Washington estimates—two to three times higher than the year before.

The bombing aroused world wide protests and cost U.S. prestige in many countries. North Vietnam counted on this opposition, especially as demonstrated in the United States, to compel Johnson to halt the bombing unconditionally.

But, meanwhile, the bombing had become, in Johnson's view, his trump card for pressuring the North Vietnamese to negotiate.

He recalled that on March 31, when he limited the bombing, he also announced that he would not seek re-election. He said that since then he had "devoted every resource of the presidency to the search for peace in Southeast Asia."

An "admirable Crichton" is any person of unusual or precocious attainments. This is the epithet of James Crichton, a Scottish intellectual prodigy.

College Favors Employee Over Computer Equipment

The Bay de Noc Community College Board of Trustees, concerned with budgeting at a special meeting Thursday night, decided it would be better for the budget to employ another person half-time in the book-keeping office rather than purchase expensive data-processing equipment.

Action was taken after the Board heard reports that it would be less costly for the college at the present time to hire another part-time employee than to purchase and maintain electronic payroll and accounting equipment.

Bids from several computer manufacturing companies indicated a cost of about $10,000 to purchase the type of equipment needed for the college.

To Continue Study

The board agreed, however, to continue study of a proposal which would allow shared use of data processing equipment with other school districts. Use of electronic equipment by the college along with other districts would permit greater use of the machine and less total cost to each district.

Dr. Richard Rinehart, college president, reported some districts have expressed an interest in such a proposal.

In other business, the Board voted to seek bids for lease of a station wagon and also to attempt to charter buses for college field trips rather than make an outright purchase of needed vehicles.

The program was approved on a one-year trial basis to determine relative costs for taking classes on field trips.

Students in sociology, psychology, industrial technology, practical nursing and in other courses are taken on special class-oriented trips.

Discuss Budgets Leo Alperovitz, business director, and Rinehart presented detailed operating budgets for 1968-69 and the 1969-70 forecast prepared for the State of Michigan. There was some discussion on the building budgets.

Some board members expressed desires for increasing the community service adult education activities that do not receive state aid, a reluctance to proceed with applications for special projects without preliminary discussion with the Board, and to very carefully study the probable additional problems before proceeding with any plans for student housing.

The Board also approved participation in the overall economic district development.

The Midway Lanes team, bowling in the American League at the Midway Lanes in Gladstone, has really been finding the pocket so far this season. For the last three weeks, Midway Lanes has bowled a 3000 series or better and they have been over the 1000 mark for 11 games in eight weeks of bowling.

On October 14, Phil LeGault paced the Midway Lanes team with a 640 series when the team hit 3082 in a three game series and he was tops again the following week with a 677 series when the team posted an even 3000. Eddie Gravelle paved the way Monday night with a 651 and Midway Lanes hit 3073. Also bowling on the team, in addition to Gravelle and LeGault, are Tony Gillis, Larry Cantin, George Tucker and Charles Lundmark.

In addition to Gravelle's 651 series Monday night, a 681 series was posted by Cliff Gillis, Charles Lundmark had a 637, Pete Peterson, a 625; Larry Viaw, a 624; George Tucker, a 619 and Jack Miller, a 605. Gillis had the high game with a 259 and he also had a 237; Larry Viaw had a 253; Ed Gravelle, a 232 and a 216; George Tucker, a 231; Charles Lundmark, a 230 and 218; Phil LeGault, a 218; Pete Peterson, a 218 and a 213, Ron Anderson, a 213; Mel Brunette, a 212; Jack Miller, a 220 and Joe Boden, a 210.

Shirley Peltier got the first 600 series by a woman at the Bowl-A-Rama Tuesday night with games of 234, 201 and 171 for a 606 series.

A ball in the repair shop didn't stop Ron Parlato Monday night in the City League at the Bowl-A-Rama. Ron borrowed a ball and rolled a 248, 199 and 149 while his own ball was being redrilled.

Phyllis Lemmer has a right to be proud of her accomplishment last week in the Thursday afternoon Housewife's League because she rolled a 213 game for the high game by a woman at the Bowl-A-Rama last week and she only carries a 123 average.

Two members of the B. F. Goodrich team in the Thursday night Happy Hour league were sporting smiles when the three games were over for the night. Jan Morin shot a 245 game, his high for the year and Bobby Villeneuve rolled a 136 triplicate.

Nick Gersich topped the bowlers in the Wednesday night Bowl-A-Rama Major League with a 249 game included in a 606 series. In the American League at 9 p. m. Wednesday night, Ron Vanenkevort rolled a 612 series with games of 220, 174 and 218 and Charlie Meyers picked up the 4-6-7-9-10 split.

Some high games and series: Ken Peterson, 245-613; Red Holmes, 642; Jack Beck, 615; Ed Gravelle, 614; 17-year-old Dave Johnson, 231-603; Ernie Vanlerberghe, 255; Vern Wicklander, 245; Billy Schinzel, 236; and Bob Corveau, 233. Milwaukee Bucks Trample Pistons

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Larry Costello was satisfied—almost — Thursday night.

The Milwaukee Bucks' coach watched as his team riddled the Detroit Pistons 134-118 for not only the expansion club's first victory, but also his first as a coach.

"These are happier moments for a change," Costello said. The Bucks had an 0-5 record going into Thursday's game. "We had more consistency. It was our best four quarters of any game we've played," he said.

The 6,694 fans at Milwaukee Arena were mystified in the second period when officials Don Murphy and Ed Rush called technical fouls on first Detroit, then Milwaukee within five seconds of each other.

The Pistons' bench drew a technical when Coach Donn

Butcher jumped out of his chair and hollered at the officials.

After Guy Rodgers sank a free throw for the Bucks, Detroit took the ball out of bounds and a technical was immediately called on Milwaukee's Wayne Embry.

The officials charged Embry was playing a zone and had previously warned the club about the illegal tactics.

"He was standing under the basket, that's all," Costello said. "When Otto Moore (Detroit center) is standing around the free throw line with the ball, we're going to let him shoot. We don't think it's worth putting a man on him."

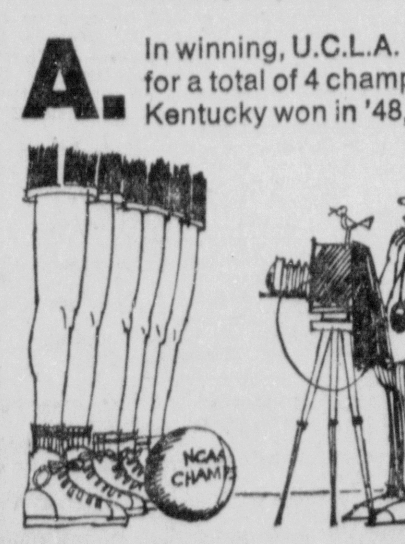

The Bucks, ahead by three points after the first quarter, jumped out to a 20-point advantage by halftime, 64-44. Detroit was only able to shave four points off that margin in the last two periods.

McLain Named Cy Young Award Winner For 1968

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny McLain, Detroit's 31-game winner, was unanimously selected today the American League's Cy Young Award winner for 1968.

McLain, 24, is the second youngest winner of the award as the league's top pitcher and the first American Leaguer ever to win it unanimously. Only two other pitchers—Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, named National League Cy Young winner earlier this week, and Sandy Koufax, who won it in 1963, 1965 and 1966—were unanimous choices.

The Tiger ace was the choice on all 20 ballots—two from each league city—in the annual Baseball Writer's Association of America vote. Only Dean Chance, who was 23 when he won the Young Award in 1964, was a younger winner than McLain.

McLain, who succeeds Boston's Jim Lonborg as the AL's Young winner, beat every team in the league at least twice and became the first 30-game winner in the major leagues in 34 years. Dizzy Dean, who won 30 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1934, was the last man to reach that plateau.

McLain, an accomplished organ player who is making a series of night club and concert appearances during the off-season, is only the second Tiger pitcher ever to earn any votes in the Cy Young balloting. Frank Lary picked up two votes in 1961.

The ballots were sent in before the World Series and did not consider Series performances. McLain lost his first two Series starts but won the vital sixth game, tying the classic against the Cardinals at three games apiece. Mickey Lolich, who won three Series games, beat St. Louis as Detroit took the title in the seventh game.

McLain made 41 starts and pitched 28 complete games. He was 17-2 on the road and 14-4 at home and had winning streaks of five, four, nine, seven and six games during the season. He struck out 280, walked 63, and pitched six shutouts. He had a 1.96 earned run average, fourth best in the league.

The young right-hander is a product of the Chicago White Sox organization. He was drafted by the Tigers in 1963 for $8,000 on the first year waiver rule when the White Sox decided to protect another young pitcher, Bruce Howard, instead.

The BBWAA started the Cy Young Awards to baseball's top pitcher in 1956 and last year began awarding two trophies, one to the top American League pitcher and one to the top National Leaguer. Lonborg and San Francisco's Mike McCormick were the 1967 winners.

Munson-Gabriel Battle Billed As Grudge Game

DETROIT (AP) — The promoters would have Sunday's battle between the Detroit Lions and the Los Angeles Rams billed as some sort of a grudge match between Bill Munson and everything else out that way including Roman Gabriel and the L.A. freeway system.

"Really, I don't have a special feeling," said Munson when asked about his first game against his old teammates.

"The only thing different is I'll be playing against guys I know—I haven't done that before," said the Lion quarterback. "I don't think that's an advantage. I know how good they are."

Munson isn't wrong on that point.

Like the Lions, the Rams are tied for first in their division. The difference is that Detroit is 3-3-1 in the Central Division while Los Angeles is 6-1 in the Coastal Division.

Although Munson rated the No. 2 quarterback in the National Football League, admits to no special feeling concerning his return to Los Angeles, a victory over L.A. quarterback Roman Gabriel and the rest of the Rams couldn't help but be a little special.

Ram Coach George Allen replaced Munson as No. 1 quarterback in favor of Gabriel two years ago. Allen made the switch even though Munson had been starting at the position for two years. Munson injured a knee opening the way for Gabriel who never relinquished the No. 1 job.

For the next two years, Munson spent most of his time on the Ram bench. Last year he threw only 10 passes for the Rams and played out his option so he could make a move.

The move to Detroit sent quarterback Milt Plum, Pat Studstill and Tommy Watkins and a No. 1 draft choice to the West Coast.

Plum is now the new version of Munson in Los Angeles playing only a few minutes near the end of lopsided Ram victories. He is four for nine in passing.

Studstill is punting and playing some at end and Watkins was waived long ago by the Rams when the club developed running depth.

Statistically in the Munson-Gabriel battle, the Lions quarterback is holding better than his own against Gabriel, rated ninth among throwers in the NFL.

Munson has attempted 133 passes for 80 completions and an average of 60.2 per cent while Gabriel has thrown more—187 times for 101 completions and an average of 54 per cent.

Munson has rolled up 1,112 yards passing, hit for nine touchdowns and had three interceptions. Gabriel has picked up 1,268 yards passing, thrown for 10 TDs and has six interceptions against him.

The Rams' only loss came last Sunday at the hands of the Baltimore Colts—the team they are tied with for first place in the Coastal Division. Deacon Jones, one of the Rams' Fearsome Foursome, said after the Baltimore game, "I'd sure hate to be on the team we play next."

A statement like that from Jones should arouse a special feeling in any opposing quarterback.

Eight Major Colleges Sport Perfect Records

By The Associated Press

Perfection is the name of the game for only eight major college football teams... and that list is a cinch to be reduced by at least one this weekend.

Whether or not it's trimmed even more could depend on this season's upset allotments for a couple of upstarts—Michigan State and Colorado.

Michigan State, which pulled a 21-14 stunner over Notre Dame last week that vaulted it into the No. 17 spot in the rankings tries for another surprise Saturday at Ohio State. It's chances of succeeding are slim—the Buckeyes are unbeaten in five games and are battling Southern California for the national championship.

Colorado, meanwhile, fresh from a 41-27 upset of tough Oklahoma, also faces a difficult task in duplicating that—it tackles No. 3 Kansas, winner of six in a row thanks to the most potent scoring attack in the college ranks.

Southern Cal, 5-0, resumes activity after two weeks of idleness with a relatively easy match—against lowly Oregon, 3-3.

However, No. 4 Penn State faces a stern chore against stubborn Army in the Nittany Lions' bid for their sixth straight.

At least one of the eight unbeaten, untied teams will be eliminated since Harvard and Penn, both 5-0, are paired against each other. The two other outfits with perfect records are No. 19 Ohio University, 6-0, which meets Western Michigan, and Yale, 5-0, which faces Dartmouth.

There have only been 78 unbeaten teams in the last 30 years, and only two during the past two seasons—Wyoming last year and Alabama in 1966.

In other Top 10 action, No. 5 Tennessee, 4-0-1, plays host to UCLA; No. 6 Purdue, 5-1, entertains hapless Illinois; No. 7 Georgia, 5-0-1, faces a big showdown with No. 15 Houston; No. 8 California, 5-1, travels to Washington; No. 9 Michigan, 5-1, is at Northwestern; and No. 10 Missouri, 5-1, plays host to Oklahoma State.

In other games, 11th-ranked Texas, 4-1-1, has a showdown with No. 13 Southern Methodist; No. 12 Notre Dame goes against Navy at Philadelphia; No. 14 Louisiana State plays host to Mississippi at night; No. 17 Arkansas tests Texas A&M. No. 18 Florida State meets Virginia Tech at night, and No. 20 Florida plays Auburn.

Mahovich Leads Wings To Victory

By The Associated Press

Frank Mahovich looked like a million to the Detroit Red Wings.

The veteran left wing, who was once the subject of a $1 million bid by the Chicago Black Hawks when he belonged to Toronto, scored three goals Thursday night, leading Detroit to a 7-5 National Hockey League victory over the Boston Bruins.

In Thursday's only other game, New York nipped Philadelphia 2-1 for its sixth straight victory against West Division teams.

The victory was Detroit's third of the young National Hockey League campaign and moved the last-place Red Wings to the .500 mark for the first time this season.

Mahovich capped his three-goal spree in the final period with a twisting, stick-handling exhibition around two defensemen as he banged an insurance goal into an empty net. It was the seventh hat trick of his career.

The Wings built up leads of 4-1 and 5-2 until the Bruins exploded for three consecutive goals in the third period to tie it at 5-5. Boston's Ken Hodge knotted the score at 13:11 of the final period.

But 23 seconds later Mahovich scored the winning marker on a setup by Gordie Howe. Then with less than a minute left in the game Mahovich poked in the insurance goal.

Pete Stenkowski scored twice for Detroit and captain Alex Delvecchio and rookie Danny Lawson got the others.

Howe set up three of the Detroit goals on assists, and his first of the night was his 900th in his 23-year NHL career.

Boston's Bobby Orr got the Bruins off to a 1-0 lead in the first period but Delvecchio came back to tie it at 1-1 three minutes later and Mahovich notched his first of the night shortly before the end of the period to give Detroit a 2-1 lead.

Stenkowski opened the scoring for the Red Wings in the second period and then Lawson picked up another midway through the period before Hodge scored on his first of the night to make it 4-2 going into the third.

Defense went out the window in the final period as the clubs combined for 23 shots and six goals.

Stenkowski opened the third period with his second goal of the night, then Boston's Johnny Bucyk, Phil Esposito and Hodge got three in a row before Mahovich put the game puck out of sight.

The Wings are idle tonight but resume action Saturday in Montreal.

Don Marshall snapped a third-period tie by batting a rebound behind Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent as the Rangers continued their domination of the NHL's West teams.

Harry Howell of the Rangers and Philadelphia's Andre Lacroix had traded second-period goals.

Marshall connected after Bob Nevin's 20-foot shot glanced off Parent's stick. The red goal light did not go on but referee Art Skov ruled that the puck had gone over the goal line.

Crashley, 22, has appeared in one game this season and had no scoring or penalty record. He played 57 games with Detroit last season, scoring two goals and 14 assists.

The move by General Manager Sid Abel out the Wings' roster to the National Hockey League limit of 16 players. The return of Dean Prentice to the lineup Sunday after missing two games with a charley - horse had put the club one man over the limit.

Defenseman Sent To Red Wing Farm

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings Thursday assigned defenseman Bart Crashley to their Fort Worth, Texas farm club in the Central Hockey League.

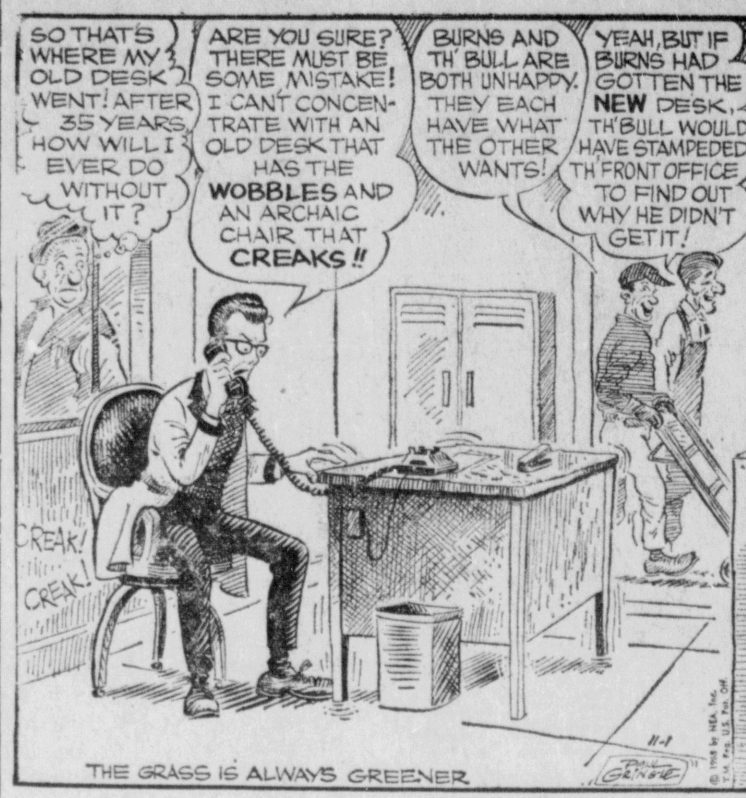

Crashley, 22, has appeared in one game this season and had no scoring or penalty record. He played 57 games with Detroit last season, scoring two goals and 14 assists.

Despite High Charges People Are Building

NEW YORK (AP) — After having been frustrated for at least two years by rising prices and high borrowing charges, many potential homeowners seem to have made a decision to act now and buy.

This at least is suggested by the recent high number of housing starts, a startling figure of 1.6 million units for September. This was the highest rate since early 1964 and came as a surprise even to some real estate people.

For many months Americans have been delaying home purchases primarily because mortgage rates were rising sharply. But, as they delayed, they saw the prices of homes rise as fast or even faster.

In the past three years, for example, some young couples with their eyes fixed on what they believed was a $20,000 home have found to their dismay that it is now priced at $25,000, or beyond their capacity to finance.

No wonder then that purchase decisions are being made. An inflationary psychology, never long absent from the real estate market, seems now to have won out over caution.

Inflationary psychology develops in this way: Prices rise and the consumer retreats, even lowering his living standards to offset the higher prices. After a couple of years, however, his attitude might change. Gradually he comes to believe that if he doesn't buy now he'll pay even more tomorrow.

Over a long period of time this psychology always makes its impact on the real estate market. As population increases the amount of space per person shrinks. Land cannot be produced to keep pace. And so the demand grows for land and for that which is built upon it.

Adding to the pressure for new homes is the fact that home purchases are not postponable indefinitely. Growing families demand more space. Apartment houses, which in many sections are filled to capacity, fail to serve this need. And so, despite high mortgage lending rates, young families are buying.

Now that the housing market is beginning to show more action, some of the real estate people who were hurt when sales fell off a few years ago are getting some slight gratification from telling the world that it was only a matter of time anyway. The boom was bound to return, they say.

In Memoriam

Bergstrom

A tribute of love to the memory of our dear son, Edward C. Bergstrom who passed away 11 years ago, November 1, 1957.

God saw the road was getting rough.
And the hills were hard to climb.
He gently closed your loving eyes.
And whispered, "Rest now, my son."
Your weary hours, your days of pain.
Your lonely nights are passed.
Your ever patient worn out soul,
Has gone to rest at last.
Just as you were, you will always be.
Loving and kind in our memory.

Hong Kong Flu
Vaccine Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — First supplies of a vaccine against the new Hong Kong strain of influenza will be available late next month, U.S. Surgeon General William H. Stewart reported Thursday.

The head of the Public Health Service forecast sufficient supplies later in the winter to meet all reasonable demands for the vaccine developed to combat the influenza type that appeared in the Orient last summer.

Dr. Stewart urged that the initially limited supplies be given to people for whom respiratory infections are most harmful — persons over 65 and those with chronic illness.

Stewart praised manufacturers for a fast response to the challenge of the new influenza strain. He said their effort means that if the strain appears to get a foothold in the United States "we should be able to achieve enough immunization of the high risk group to prevent many serious illnesses and possibly deaths."

Kellogg Teachers
Set To Strike

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Teachers at Kellogg Community College in Battle Creek Thursday charged the Board of Education with unfair practices and a strike deadline for Monday.

A week earlier, the board made what it said was its final offer which was rejected by the teachers.

Negotiations for a new contract have been continuing since last summer.

Bargainers for both sides met again Thursday and while the meeting was in session, the school board circulated a letter among teachers urging them to accept the board's latest offer.

The teachers called the letter an attempt to circumvent collective bargaining and reaffirmed their decision to strike if a new contract agreement is not reached.

A walkout would affect 96 members of the school's faculty. Enrollment at Kellogg is 2,715.

EXPERT RATTER

Southwesterners gave the cacomistle, or ring-tailed cat, the name of "miner's cat." A ratter second to none, it will often move in with prospectors and completely exterminate the rodents in their cabins.

HHH Nixon Vie
For State Vote

LANSING (AP) — Richard M. Nixon and Hubert H. Humphrey speak in concert when they say the margin of victory will be narrow in Michigan's presidential election Tuesday.

Both have campaigned hard in the state in hopes of capturing its 21 electoral votes. Nixon vows he can carry Michigan this year despite the fact the late John F. Kennedy received about 70,000 more votes than Nixon in Michigan in the 1960 presidential election.

Humphrey appears slightly less confident of winning, partly because of possible defections among traditionally Democratic rank-and-file union members who wear the campaign buttons of third party candidate George Wallace.

"This is a close state," said Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate, during his final scheduled campaign swing into Michigan early this week.

Chances Good: HHH

"In 1960, one per cent made the difference in the state of Michigan," he said. "In 1968, one per cent — one vote a precinct could make the difference."

However, he adds, "We can win."

Humphrey, when asked for an assessment of his chances of carrying Michigan Nov. 5, replied, "I think they look good. We feel very encouraged from our reports."

The latest Detroit News poll gave Nixon 40 per cent of the vote. Humphrey received 39 per cent and Wallace, 15. Five per cent were undecided.

Third party candidate George Wallace also claims Michigan is one of the industrial northern states that he could carry.

However, Democratic and Republican party officials dismiss the possibility of a majority of Michigan voters swinging to the former Alabama governor.

Outstate Vote

Governor George Romney and GOP State Chairman Elly Peterson both claim Nixon will carry the state. Romney has boasted Nixon in several campaign trips in the state.

"I think Nixon is a little in the lead," said Mrs. Peterson, adding that his campaign trips to Saginaw, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids "had a very definite impact on the outstate vote."

Mrs. Peterson's opposite number in the Democratic camp, State Chairman Sander Levin, expresses confidence that Humphrey will receive a majority in Michigan.

Humphrey will receive a majority in Michigan.

"Until a few days ago it was even steven," Levin said. "Now I think he's pulled into the lead. The margin of victory will depend on the events of the next few days."

Humphrey was scheduled to campaign in Detroit today.

Part of the Democrats' cause for jubilation, Levin says, is a massive registration drive that added more than 500,000 names to the rolls. Levin predicts most of the new registrants will vote Democratic.

Kelley Rules On
Holding Offices
Simultaneously

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Thursday that one person may not simultaneously hold the offices of township superintendent and county supervisor.

Kelley's ruling "codified" previous informal opinions, a spokesman explained.

"Members of the legislative body of a city may not also serve simultaneously as a member of the county board of supervisors," Kelley said, "because of the incompatibility of those offices."

"The same is true of a mayor, clerk, assessor and city attorney," the ruling added. "Likewise, township officers who are members of the township board may not serve as a member of the county board of supervisors."

"The offices of township superintendent of a charter township and a member of the county board of supervisors are also incompatible," Kelley ruled.

Department Store
Business Brisk

NEW YORK (AP) — The brisk pace of retail sales this fall is reflected in earnings reports of three major department store chains, J.C. Penney Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Montgomery Ward & Co.

J.C. Penney reported volume for the four-week period ended Oct. 26 increased 17.9 per cent over the same 1967 period. Sears reported its sales for the period were 9.3 per cent higher than last year, and Montgomery Ward registered a 7.1 per cent increase.

Nahma

Mrs. Harry DeRosier returned to her home Saturday after spending a two-week vacation with relatives in Crystal Lake, Milwaukee, Sheboygan and Two Rivers, Wis. She was accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lyons of Two Rivers.

Mrs. Fred Olmsted left Sunday for Lombard, Ill., where she will make her home. Dr. and Mrs. Richard Marquart of Lombard arrived Saturday to take Mrs. Olmsted to their home.
